Keeps 'Em Awake at McAndrew Trial.

In the wake of the school board trial of Supt. McAndrew yesterday were the following developments in Mayor Thompson's campaign against British propaganda:

The mayor's America First organization opened its national headquarters in luxurious downtown offices and launched a country wide campaign for members at $10 each.

3. School board officials disclosed that the purchase of all history texts for the pupils has been halted until books of assured patriotism could be acquired.

4. State convention of school board officials cheered for McAndrew when a speech written by him was read in his absence.

Charles Edward Russell of New York, writer, lecturer, and former Chicago journalist, entered the field against England yesterday by the words of Mayor Thompson and his cohorts. He lectured brilliantly for three hours before the wide awake members of the board of education at the eight session of the insubordination trial of William McAndrew, suspended superintendent of schools.

Mr. McAndrew took copious notes of the lecture, although his attorneys maintained their attitude that all this testimony about British propaganda was nothing to do with the real issue of the case.

Rape Anglo-Saxon Alliance.
Mr. Russell is a vigorous little man, white haired, with a sonorous voice and an ability to marshal the king's English in effective style. Such sentence

"I regard the English Speaking Union as the most dangerous organization in the world."

"The world is threatened now with its greatest menace—the advance of

"This agitation [for a closer alliance between the United States and England] is drawing the world into two hostile camps, the Anglo-Saxon and the Latin. On the whole, it is a Testimony Delights Coath.

His onslaught on the history text books, the new method books which have sought to soft pedal the American Revolution and put England in a light less subject to hatred, was an uncompassioned one, in the course of which he took his dazzled hearers over the history of the modern world, inter-

"He's got the stuff," remarked the delighted president of the board, J. Lewis Coath, after the hearing.

Mr. Coath had just vented his own highly worked up and patriotic feelings by referring to Prof. Carlton J. Hayes of Columbia as a "cad."

Chicago now, according to a report presented by Attorney Frank Righelmer for the board. Mr. Righelmer, the record, read a recent interview attributed to Prof. Hayes by a New York paper, in which the professor had spoken slightly of the cult of nationalism and was made to sneer at

"He may be a professor at Columbia," said the president of this board says. "He is a cad," declared Mr. Coath solemnly.

Defies McAndrew to Denial.
Mr. Higheimer also had another bit of proof. This was that the modern history written by Prof. Andrew McLaughlin of the University of Chicago is also being used in a half-den high schools. He named the schools and called on Mr. McAndrew deny that he had recommended this book on June 10, 1925. Mr. McAndrew kept a majestic silence. This one of the books in which it has

He declared that the revolution is written from a British point of view. This sort of history was referred to "poisoned" by Mr. Russell, who stated in the course of the afternoon little story about Prof. McLaughlin. While Mr. Russell was in London a

A public information emissary of President Wilson during the war he had an excellent opportunity to observe the methods of British propaganda, he said. One of these is the charming manner in which the Britishers entertain visiting Americans, particularly history writers, teachers, and students and all who are able to touch public opinion.

"When Prof. McLaughlin arrived in England," said Mr. Russell, "he was received with honors greater than that paid any other American that I know of, an attention given seldom except to royalty. He was met by a committee of distinguished men and taken to his hotel and dined and lunched and taken care of for days. He even had the great honor of spending a night in Windsor castle."

The propaganda of which Mr. Russell complains is that which he described as a deliberate, efficient attempt on the part of one nation to influence the thought, the national actions and policies of another nation. Through organization, the English have been carrying out an ambitious campaign to teach the youth and the adults of the United States the control of news sources, he said, this is accomplished.

Points to Flood of Lecturers.
Since the close of the war, he declared, at least 3,000 lecturers have come to this country from England, telling us what to do on a variety of subjects, but always with the aim of inserting something about the great benefits of a closer alliance with England in order to keep the peace of the world.

This very alliance, even in its stage of discussion, is bound to have the other nations shiver and form a coalition against us and head us into another war, particularly when economic considerations are regarded, the witness stated. He spoke of the time coming when there would be no more places for England to dump her surplus materials, and said that the next war would be over the economic control of north Africa, where the greatest development is to come, and that the first thing England would try to do would be to alienate this country from France.

An Experience in England.
Sir Harry Britton, M. P., was named as one of the first propagandists that Mr. Russell ran across when he was sent to England during the war.

At that time he was plain Mr. Harry Britton and informed Mr. Russell that he had founded an American officers' club in London and invited him there for lunch, said Russell, who was told that the furniture had been donated by the Cunard Steamship company. The purpose of the club was to promote an affiliation or amalgamation of some kind between England and the United States.

"Mr. Britton told me that he founded the Pilgrims' Society of England and America," Mr. Russell went on. "Among its officers were men prominent in both countries and women high in society. He told me the first objective of the society was the enlargement of the British cabinet by the addition of a ministry of American affairs. He said that India had such a representation and he thought it but right and fair that America, being in the same position as India, should also be fairly represented."

Learn About British Policy.
Mr. Russell did not get along well with these people and was convinced that they were merely trying to use him. He learned more of British policy from his friend, Henry H. Hyndman, the most conspicuous socialist in England, and a man whose knowledge of European affairs led Lord Salisbury to invite him to become secretary of foreign affairs.

"Hyndman told me," said the witness, "that the settled, definite and determined policy of Great Britain was to place the United States so that Great Britain should have the support of the United States in international affairs, a support of the kind that it could depend on at all times."

Foot troubles neglected now grow steadily worse

We often hear it said, "I'm not feeling fit today, but I'll be alright tomorrow."

True! There are some little pains and aches that Nature corrects of her own accord. But don't make the mistake of thinking that this is true of foot pains. Nature cannot remove foot troubles if the shoes you are wearing are wrong. But the right shoes can! And only after the main cause has been removed can Nature restore the normal health and vigor that your feet should have.

Ground Gripper Shoes have brought quick relief to thousands of foot sufferers. No other shoes combine these three corrective features—The Straight Last Inner Edge, the Flexible Arch and the Patented Rotor Heel. Foot troubles neglected now will grow steadily worse—so why not stop in at a Ground Gripper Store and be properly fitted right away.

CHEER McANDREW SPEECH THOUGH HE ISN'T THERE

School Heads Try in Vain to Get Him by Plane.

Five hundred members of the Illinois State School Board association sat patiently for three hours last night in an Urbana, Ill., hotel waiting to hear Supt. William McAndrew talk on "The Primary Purpose of Public School Education," while officers of the organization tried in vain to get the speaker from Chicago to Urbana by airplane.

At 10:30 p. m. M. H. Wright of Lake Bluff, vice president of the association, read the address which was to have been given by Mr. McAndrew and was repeatedly interrupted by the cheers of the audience. Despite their disappointment and the lateness of the hour the delegates applauded the absent superintendent loudly and enthusiastically.

His Trial Lasts Too Long.
Supt. McAndrew, it was explained later, had been forced to cancel the appointment at the last minute because yesterday's session of his trial before the Chicago board of education lasted too long for him to take the train to Urbana.

Notified that Supt. McAndrew had missed his train, leaders of the state association attempted at 8 o'clock to charter an airplane at the Maywood field to transport him to the meeting place. By that time Mr. McAndrew had left his home and could not be reached. Meanwhile special committees went to the railroad station to meet two later trains in the hope that the speaker might put in a tardy appearance. They were disappointed and the meeting was called to order to hear the address read.

Tells Purpose of Education.
The primary purpose of public school education," Supt. McAndrew said, by proxy, "is the teaching of character and the building of citizenship."

The teaching of patriotism to school children of America, according to his paper, consists in more than instruction in singing national hymns.

"When pupils say, 'I pledge allegiance to the flag and the republic for which it stands,' the manuscript read, 'they should be taught that the republic means you and I, all Chicago all Illinois, and all the United States.'"

WOMAN FALLS 13 FLOORS TO DEATH IN LOOP
Miss Mary Chiles, 42, of 3161 Federal street, leaped or fell to her death yesterday from a window on the fourteenth floor of the Consumers building, 226 South State street. Her body, with every bone broken, was picked up in the alley by police. A brother for whom she had been keeping house identified her. He said Miss Chiles had been in ill health for some time and might have jumped from the window while despondent.

INJURIES FATAL TO WORKMAN.
Eugene Lemmer, 30, address unknown, building laborer, died yesterday at Hennrich Memorial hospital of injuries suffered on Nov. 21 while working for the C. Anderson company, 74 West Washington street.

History War Holds Up Buying of Texts for Chicago Pupils

All orders for history textbooks used in the Chicago schools are being held up and no replacements of worn out volumes are being made pending the conclusion of the trial of Supt. William McAndrew, it was learned yesterday.

Although requisitions for additional histories have been received by the purchasing bureau of the board of education from principals of fifteen schools, no provision has been made for supplying their demands.

John E. Byrnes, business manager for the board, said the purchase of histories had been stopped on an order from J. Lewis Coath, president of the board. The order, he said, included not only American history texts, but also histories of all nations and periods. Mr. Byrnes said there had been no formal action by the board in the matter.

Trustee Oscar Durant's campaign to "put Christopher Columbus back in the history texts" was endorsed yesterday by Peter A. Mortenson, former superintendent of schools, and former Congressman John J. Gorman, Mayor Thompson's special investigator in school history matters.

"Although I am descended from Danish ancestors," Mr. Mortenson said, "I believe that Columbus and his Italian mariners should receive full honor for the discovery of the new world. The Left Ericson story is hardly more than a myth."

Disappearance of an entire carload of pig tin, weighing thousands of pounds and valued at $36,000, baffled the police department last night. H. Feinberg, owner of the Chicago Smelting and Refining company, 2437-69 South Loomis street, was questioned at the detective bureau.

Feinberg said he recently ordered the car load of block tin from New York and several days ago he was notified that it was ready to be unloaded at the New York Central train tracks at 15th and Loomis streets, near his smelting plant.

When he sent over to procure the metal he found the car empty, police were told.

WALTER D. SCOTT DEFENDS R. O. T. C., ASSAILS CRITICS

President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern University issued a statement last night defending the R. O. T. C. against its pacifistic critics and those who charge that the corps does not fulfill its function.

"Military and naval science," he declared, "has one of the largest—if not the largest—enrollment of any course offered at the university. For the number of those eligible to elect the course it has the greatest enrollment."

To those who object specifically that the R. O. T. C. lacks proper organization at the university, Dr. Scott observed that there are a minority of students who object to every course that is given and that if their criticisms were heeded no classes would be held.

SEEK TO INDICT ACCOMPLICES IN REMUS SLAYING

Prosecutor Strikes at Insanity Defense.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 16.—(Special.)—Indictment of several other persons for conspiracy to murder Mrs. Imogene Remus will be the state's answer to George Remus' defense that he alone figured in the sensational killing and that he did it while in a temporary fit of emotional insanity, it became known today.

The indictments were reported to have been voted by the Hamilton county grand jury and are expected to be returned in open court tomorrow or Friday.

While the grand jury was in action Remus, former Chicago lawyer, known as the "millionaire bootlegger," was in the Criminal court busy with the selection of the jury in his own trial for the slaying.

Question Remus' Association.
What persons or how many the grand jury is to name was not made known. But a number of former associates of Remus, all familiar with angles of the murder case, testified before the grand jury during the afternoon.

Among them were George Connors, characterized by the state as a former "lieutenant" of Remus and called by the former bootlegger his "secretary"; Mrs. George Connors, Harry Connors, his brother, and John Connors, his father.

Gabriel Ryerson, who married Remus' sister; William Mueller, caretaker at the Remus mansion at 5th street and Hermon avenue, Cincinnati, and Joe Bauer, brother of Dan Bauer, political power in the city, were others.

Would Crack Defense.
Details of the alleged conspiracy were lacking, but it was obvious that if the state is able to prove a plot to kill Mrs. Remus existed, it will shatter Remus' defense that he went suddenly insane through bitterness and brooding over the wrong that the woman he killed and Franklin L. Dodge, former crack prohibition agent, heaped upon him.

Remus' story that Dodge framed him and sent him to the federal prison at Atlanta, that the agent stole his faithful wife while he was powerless in his cell, and that the two of them then appropriated his vast fortune, even down to the furniture in his home and his books, has gained him widespread sympathy. It is stated, however, that it is why Connors, homicide, it is said, and that is why Connors, Prosecutor Charles P. Taft II, son of the Supreme court chief justice, and

REMUS JUROR, UNDER GUARD, ATTENDS HIS DAUGHTER'S WEDDING

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Matthew J. Normile Sr. saw his daughter Irene married today while he sat on the side lines in custody of a deputy sheriff, all because he was fulfilling his duties of citizenship.

Normile was selected tentatively as a juror in the George Remus murder case and Judge Chester R. Shook had ordered the segregation of all jurors. Anyway, Normile sat in at the wedding breakfast but had to be back in court at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Normile managed to get a laugh out of her husband's discomfiture, but Normile could not see the joke.

his assistants have scoured the country for evidence to offset it. The selection of the jury in the Remus trial went on through its third day with uncertain results. True enough there were twelve jurors in the box tonight, eleven tentatively accepted, but under the Ohio jury system this may mean much or it may mean nothing.

The only indication of progress was the fact that both the state and the prosecution resorted during the day to their peremptory challenges, the only method of getting rid of jurors who had qualified and could not be dismissed for cause.

In Ohio the state has four peremptories and the defense has four times that many. Under the rules of procedure laid down by Judge Chester R. Shook, who is sitting in the Remus case, these must be exercised as follows:

One by the state, four by the defense; a second by the state, four more by the defense; a third by the state, seven by the defense; one by the state and one by the defense.

Thirteenth Juror Provided.
When these challenges are exhausted, a thirteenth juror is chosen; this thirteenth juror will hear all the evidence but he will take no part in the deliberations unless one of the other jurors become ill or unable for some reason to function.

Twenty veniremen were examined and excused today. The state at the same time exhausted its first peremptory challenge and the defense its first four.

The eleven tentative jurors that sat tonight in the box were ten men and two women. One of the latter was young and dark and pretty. The other was a big and brawny matron with a determined chin whose seeming severity vanished when she smiled or laughed. Not one of the ten men who sat in the box was young.

One of the Remus first moves today was to petition the Probate court for an order to get back some of his property that he stated had been taken from his home here and which he had discovered was hidden in a garage.

Remus early today asked the court to compel Prosecutor Taft to tell the defense whereabout of Dodge, Ruth Holmes Remus, his foster daughter, and Mrs. Grace Campbell, mother of the slain woman. This motion was denied.

MOORS FREE SIX FRENCH; TO GET $80,000 RANSOM

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

RABAT, French Morocco, Nov. 16.—Six French hostages who have been held by Moorish brigands in the Atlas mountains for several weeks have been released and are on their way to the French military post of Aguenous, according to word from native sources tonight.

The captives are Yves Steeg, nephew of Theodore Steeg, French resident general of Morocco; Jean Maillet, the Baroness Steinheil, Mme. Marie Prokoff, and the two little Arnaud girls. The little girls were abducted by tribesmen after their parents had been murdered, and the others were carried off on Oct. 22.

Kept by Woman of Tribe.
The Arnaud girls were placed in care of a woman of the wild Cheu tribe, who recently lost her own children by famine. She alone is said to have been able to calm the youngsters.

Liberal bribing of the chiefs of rebel tribes in the territory through which the captives must pass is said to have aided greatly in effecting their release.

It is reported that a dissident tribe across whose territory Sheikh Ben Daoud, who was holding the youngsters, had to pass, suddenly presented a demand of $60,000 francs ($20,000) for the privilege of using the roads. He knew Sheikh Ben Daoud was on his way to a rendezvous with a French convoy of thirty mules, carrying $80,000 francs ($22,000) ransom for the two children, and wanted his share.

$48,000 for Ransom.
Gen. Freydenbourg and Col. Ducaud are waiting at Aguenous, where the captives are expected to arrive tomorrow morning. MRS. GREENEBAUM SUES BANKER'S SON FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Ernest Greenebaum Jr., son of Moses E. Greenebaum, president of the Bank of America, was sued for divorce in the Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Eleanor Hyman Greenebaum of 235 Maple Hill road, Glenview.

The plaintiff, who is a daughter of Mrs. David Hyman of the Drake hotel, active in Jewish charities, is asking a decree and alimony on charges of cruelty.

The defendant, who is vice president of Greenebaum Sons Investment company, is alleged to have abused his wife in violent outbursts of temper.

The two were married Jan. 1, 1911. She left him on Aug. 1 of this year, according to the bill, because her nervous system was wrecked by his treatment.

Two specific acts of cruelty are set up in the bill, which was drawn by Attorney Julius J. Hoffman: one is that he knocked her down on Aug. 1 and the other that he beat her three days later.

Mrs. Greenebaum is asking for custody of their two sons, M. Ernest Greenebaum III, 10 years old, and William Greenebaum, 6 years old.

HEARD FOR WIFE DEPOSITION.
John Barn, 52, of Flint, Mich., alleged to have deserted his wife there and recently employed at the Illinois Central hospital, was arrested yesterday by Hyde Park police at the request of the sheriff at Flint.

ELIZABETH HINES.

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Elizabeth Hines, "The O'Brien Girl," of several years back, has forsaken the stage for domesticity. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Hines, announced today that for three months she has been the wife of Frank Riggs Warton, a banker. The ceremony was performed Aug. 18 at Port Chester, N. Y.

KILLS INVALID AT HER REQUEST; COMMITS SUICIDE

Boston, Mass., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—A Waltham girl is dead and her sweetheart is dying in the Waltham hospital in the strangest shooting case the police have had to deal with in years.

Grace Mills, 19, of Waltham, shot herself and was then killed by Joseph F. Buckley of Weston while the two were sitting in a parked machine in Sudbury. Driving to Waltham, Buckley shot himself while not far from the girl's home.

Suffering from an apparently hopeless battle against heart trouble, the girl grabbed her sweetheart's revolver, wounded herself and finally persuaded him to kill her, according to the police. A short time later he shot himself near the heart and is critically wounded.

BOOZE HUNTING MACHINE LOSES FOR DRY AGENTS

Ebulliometer Evidence Is Held Too Fragile.

Science may be exact, but scientific instruments in the hands of prohibition agents may be subject to fluctuation, United States Commissioner Henry C. Betler ruled in effect yesterday when he dismissed the defendant in a test case involving the use of the ebulliometer. This is a device for testing the alcoholic content of a liquid by determining its boiling point. Commissioner Betler's decision will result in the dismissal of thirty other cases against Chicago brew sellers. Prohibition Administrator E. C. Yel-lowley was the first to put the ebulliometer in the hands of dry agents. The instrument is not used in other administrative districts. The test case yesterday was against William J. Trudell, owner of the Washington Grill, Washington and Wells streets. He had been accused of selling beer to his customers and the bubbling ebulliometer upheld the charge.

Dry agents related the manner in which the instrument was used by them. One of their group, it was said, would enter a place and call for a drink. This he would take to a secluded spot and try it on his ebulliometer. After ascertaining the alcoholic content his fellow agents would stage an immediate raid.

Assistant United States District Attorney E. A. Tapp, who prosecuted Trudell, indicated that the government would not prosecute the thirty remaining offenders arrested on ebulliometer evidence. Commissioner Betler, in dismissing Trudell, said that he did not think tests made over a lamp constituted positive proof of alcohol content.

RITCHIE SAYS SMITH IS ENTITLED TO FIRST CONSIDERATION IN '28

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—Gov. Ritchie of New York, as "the foremost of the governors of the 48 states," is entitled to first consideration for the Democratic nomination for President, in the belief of Gov. Ritchie of Maryland, himself a potential candidate.

The Maryland executive expressed his view last night in addressing Catholic charity workers.

Mr. Ritchie thanked the chairman of the meeting for associating his name with that of Smith.

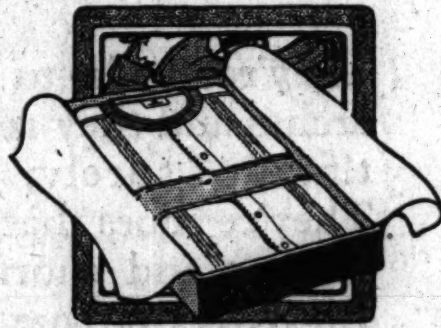

Upon the close of Gov. Ritchie's speech, Archbishop Curley of Baltimore paid a tribute to the Maryland governor, who is of another faith.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking it according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

STATE IN APPEAL TO JURY DEMANDS LEFTY LEWIS DIE

by Prosecutor.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Thomas Dowling, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Joseph Seibert, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Reformatory by Judge Emanuel Miller.

Ray McDonald and Thomas Dougherty, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary; George Brockwell, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the Reformatory by Judge Stanley Karkowski.

Joe Gomez, murder, sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary; William Thomas, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the Reformatory by Judge Otto Korne.

Gladys Bryant and Ollie Bryant, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the Reformatory by Judge Worth E. Gaylor.

"Send Lefty Lewis to the electric chair! In the name of the decent citizens of Chicago, let the labor terrorists know that their rule of fist and gun is over; that no longer may they commit murder in order to frighten their victims into submission."—Assistant State's Attorney Harold Levy to the jury at the Lewis murder trial.

State and defense rested their cases yesterday in the trial of Harry J. [Lefty] Lewis, labor agent, for the murder of Max Braverman, a junk peddler, in front of a junk store at 2645 West Roosevelt road last Aug. 26. Final arguments before Judge Stanley H. Karkowski were started and the case will probably be given to the jury tomorrow afternoon.

Prosecutor Harold Levy, in a stirring appeal to the jury for a death penalty, opened the arguments for the state. Defense Attorneys Benedict J. Short and George H. Grentner will talk today and State's Attorney Robert H. Crowe will then sum up the issues of the case.

Tells of Witness' Boast.

The state's case was closed with the rebuttal testimony of Jack Schwartz, a peddler, who testified that Jacob Goldenberg, a defense witness, boasted of getting $3,000 for his testimony and suggested that Schwartz also testify for Lewis and "get some easy money." Schwartz persisted in his story despite a severe cross-examination.

Lewis was pictured as a cruel, vicious killer in the speech of Prosecutor Levy to the jury. The fact that he had served a prison term for bank robbery was stressed frequently in the argument. Lewis had allowed his past record to be introduced by taking the stand Tuesday and denying the murder charge. If he had remained silent, his criminal record could not have been disclosed to the jury.

"The defense paints Lewis as an honest business man who never bothered any one and who organized a union of the junk peddlers to promote their interests," said Levy. "I say that the evidence shows Lewis as an ex-convict with an eye for easy ways of making money. He forced 900 peddlers into a union to which they did not wish to belong and he collected $1 a month in dues from them.

"Lewis wasn't a union man, he wasn't a peddler. He had nothing in common with those junkmen. But he knew their frailties. He believed he could kick them and slug them and beat them until he could rule by the fear of God he had instilled in them." Pointing at Lewis, a composed figure in the defendant's chair, the prosecutor shouted: "Look at him! Lefty Lewis, cold, sneering, vicious, mean, ruthless. Out of the penitentiary one day and organizing a junk peddler's union the next. He went among those ignorant men like a snarling beast.

"The evidence of eight state's witnesses shows that he said to an old man, Rosenkavitz: 'Wear a button. And the old man replied: 'I don't want a button.' Then Lewis seized Rosenkavitz by the throat. Braverman was the only man there with the courage to interfere and he paid for that bravery with his life. Even he did not lay hands on Lewis. He only tried to pull Rosenkavitz away.

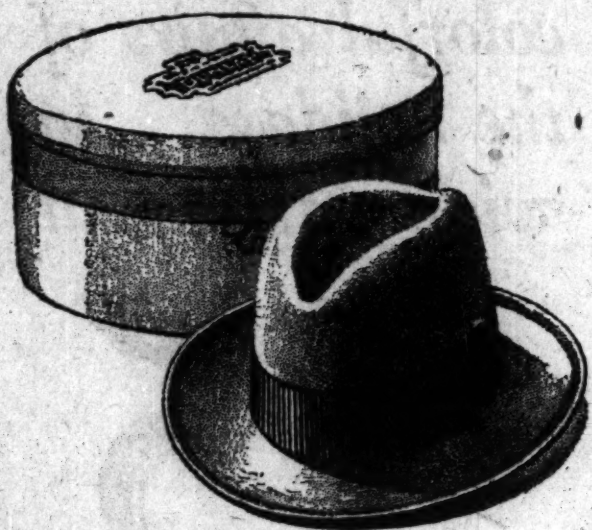

"Lewis pulled out his gun and said, 'You—' 'I'll teach you to interfere in my affairs.'"

Retells Story of Shooting.

"Let us stop for a moment and consider Lewis' state of mind. He had been confined to his home by a long sickness, according to his own testimony. During his absence these dumb, driven people had learned the joy of freedom from his iron grip. He found them inclined to disregard him when he came back.

"Lewis knew that once some one had successfully defied him his grip was broken. Braverman had dared to make that gesture of defiance. Lewis had to show in one gesture that no one could oppose him and live. So he shot, and Rosenkavitz said that he saw his friend, poor Braverman, drop to the sidewalk and lie there dead.

"All these peddlers ask of you is the right to go on making a living, unhampered by such a man as Lewis. Give him the same kind of sympathy and mercy he gave Braverman. Deceit death for him as he decreed death for Braverman, but do it in a legal way."

BARE HIGH FEES JEWISH BAKERS PAY ORGANIZERS

Grand Jury to Hear Evidence of Probe.

Initiation fee of $200 and weekly dues of $13 is the tribute collected from members of the Master Jewish Bakers association, according to evidence obtained yesterday by Special Assistant State's Attorney Walter Walker, who with Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, is investigating complaints against racketeers and extortionists.

Investigation of the organization was started on a complaint made by Louis Planko, 1821 South Kedzie avenue, and his partner Gimpel Zlatotin, who, although not members of the association, were attacked because they violated the rules by baking a certain kind of doughnut and biscuit, it was charged.

Planko said that on Oct. 27 he was slugged until unconscious and Zlatotin was intimidated by a Negro, who held a revolver against him. Zlatotin says that six hours after the assault Morris Fishbein, 1519 Independence boulevard, treasurer of the association, met him and said he did not intend that either he or his partner should be slugged. Fishbein denied any such conversation with Zlatotin. Prosecutor Walker said he would submit the evidence to the grand jury within a few days. Detectives were assigned to search for "Guinea" Ginsberg, a Roosevelt road cabaret keeper, who is said to be the real organizer of the bakers' association. Ginsberg, whose first name is not even known to his associates in the association, is said to be organizer and chairman of the executive board.

Several bakers questioned by the prosecutor were asked what benefits they derive from the high payments to the association and they could tell of none, except that they do not have any "troubles."

ATE PROMISES MAKE INQUIRY PENNSYLVANIA

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Gov. S. Fisher of Pennsylvania today called on the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor, which he would investigate the power by coal and iron mines in the district of the bituminous coal fields of the state.

The practice of the insurance of commissions in the office of the secretary of the commonwealth to coal and iron producing companies.

Alleged brutality of the coal and iron police.

Alleged partiality shown to the coal producers by the state police.

The delegation gave the governor a report of the action of the conference at Pittsburgh, which he said would be considered.

"The governor has given us the widest opportunity to present our views," said President Green. "We leave with the impression that he is going to make a very thorough investigation of all the things against which we have complained."

See President Monday.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The committee of labor leaders which called on Gov. Fisher of Pennsylvania has arranged to see President Coolidge at the White House next Monday.

At that time the delegation, which will be headed by President Green of the American Federation of Labor, plans to discuss with Mr. Coolidge conditions in the bituminous coal fields of western Pennsylvania.

Machine Guns Halt I. W. W. Denver, Colo., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—A woman clad in red and waving a large American flag, I. W. W. pickets advanced on the Columbine mine in the northern fields, only to be stopped by the frowning muzzles of machine guns, pointed menacingly through strands of barbed wire entanglements.

Guards manning the guns stood at their positions. They had orders to shoot any trespassers. Overhead, in warlike aspect, dived four National Guard airplanes, circling and swooping over the territory. About 100 men, following the Amazon leader, halted at the gates to the mine and did not try to force an entrance.

Operators of the Columbine had notified the governor yesterday that pickets would be shot if they set foot on the property, which is the only coal mine still operating in the northern fields. The mine had been picketed by strikers for several weeks prior to today.

In the southern Colorado fields operators claimed the walkout was slowly losing ground.

Geo. Meredith Had Royal Blood, Conan Doyle Says [Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who was a guest of the Associated American correspondents at a luncheon here today, declared in the course of his literary reminiscences that George Meredith, the famous novelist, was of royal blood.

Meredith's father, Sir Arthur said, was a sailor and outfitter of Portsmouth, and a man of great dignity, perfect manners, and was a son of British royalty "on the wrong side of the blanket."

COOLIDGE AND SMITH LEAD IN POLL OF FARMS

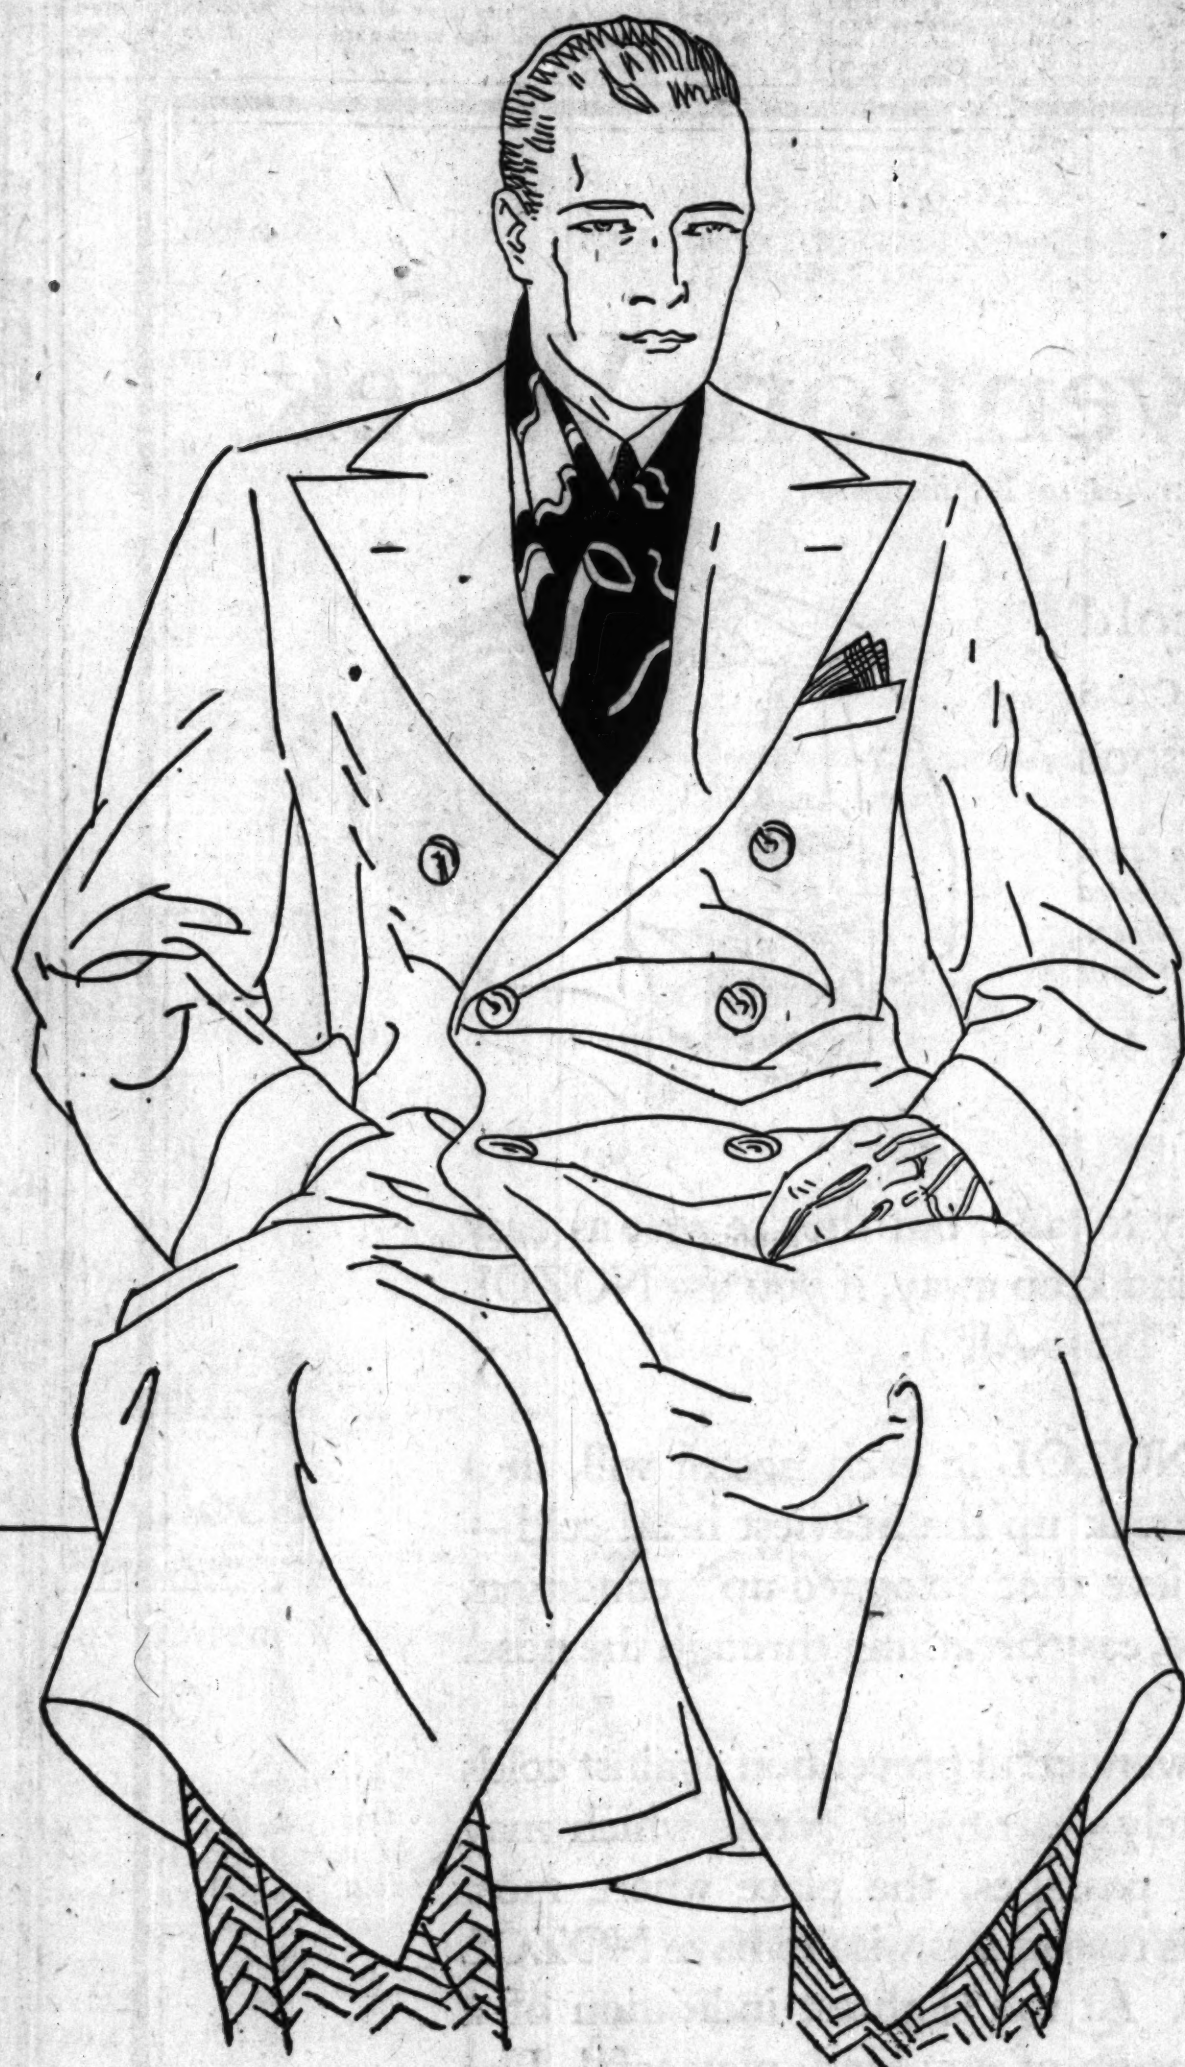

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—President Coolidge and Gov. Smith are the most favored of potential presidential candidates for the farmers, judging from a straw vote taken by the Farm Journal of Philadelphia.

President Coolidge, despite his declaration that he did not "choose" to run, is credited with 47 per cent of all the votes cast for Republicans who may be in the running prior to the national convention.

Gov. Smith is down for 48 per cent of the vote cast for Democrats.

An odd feature of the straw poll is the strength of President Coolidge in the cotton states of the south, where he far outdistances Gov. Smith.

William Gibbs McAdoo, although he has taken himself out of the race, runs second, but a pretty bad second among the Democrats, while United States Senator James A. Reed, who occupies third place, runs pretty close to Mr. McAdoo.

DICTATORSHIP OF KLAN IN ALABAMA PARALYZES LAW

Flogging Prosecutor in Uphill Battle.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 16.—(Special.)—There are a few of the stories that will never be told in Alabama. A druggist of Talladega was accused of going around with another man's wife and was taken out into the woods and unmercifully flogged.

A prominent and wealthy citizen of the state was flogged for a similar offense, but refused to admit it, although the attorney general has the confession of one of the men who flogged him.

R. M. McCall, a farmer living near Talladega, was accused of harboring a girl in his house and was flogged. According to Attorney General Charles McCall, who has started a single-handed war against the Ku Klux Klan of Alabama, there have been 56 floggings in Talladega county and there is no chance of indictments and prosecutions.

Klan Ridden County.

All but four of those who have been flogged have left the county, his investigators report. Two grand juries have investigated without result. It is a Klan ridden county, according to McCall, and these crimes will never be made public.

There is one young attorney in Talladega who has stirred up trouble. If

RUTH ELDER SIGNS $100,000 CONTRACT FOR VAUDEVILLE

New York, Nov. 16.—(Special.)—

Miss Ruth Elder is to receive $100,000 for one hundred days in vaudeville, according to a contract she signed today with Loews, Inc. Her partner, George W. Haldeman, on her flight to a point several hundred miles off the coast, is considering a contract for one-tenth that sum with a lecture bureau. However, Haldeman will have to appear but eight times, while Miss Elder's agreement calls for several shows each day.

Miss Elder is to appear following a display of motion pictures of her take-off and receptions in Europe and New York and will talk for six or seven minutes about her flight.

As part of the agreement, Miss Elder stipulated that she was to have the Christmas weeks to herself. She plans to go to Lakeland, Fla., for a visit with her parents and sisters. After a brief stay she plans to go to Panama to spend a week with her husband.

Miss Elder said she might invest some of the money she will make in this venture in another flight. So far Miss Elder has realized through a newspaper and syndicate arrangement about $17,000 on her flight, it was said today.

he had never spoken nothing would have leaked to the outside world as to methods regulating morality in this community. It is so good here that not even near-beer is sold, and nothing is open on Sundays except the churches.

Yet a few months ago a Negro who had just been acquitted in a murder case in which white men had tried to blame him, was shot and killed on the courthouse steps by a brother of the victim. Nothing much is expected to happen to him.

In Birmingham recently a Negro caddy was shot and killed by a white caddy master because the boy had

"sassed" him, and the prosecutor considered this an almost hopeless case.

Earl Montgomery, Talladega official, happened to be talking to Judge A. O. Steel in Gadsden recently and told him of conditions in the county. The judge made it public and called on the people to do something. The grand jury met and after being furnished with the names of 56 flogging victims by the attorney general, decided to do nothing and called on the attorney general for evidence at the December session.

"There have been at least 47 floggings and one murder and nobody has been indicted for it," says Mr. Montgomery.

"The truth is something that nobody can get around. All true men must face it squarely sooner or later. I have an abiding faith that our patriotic citizens will face this truth of the grave situation now before us, squarely and fearlessly, and may the Almighty God of our fathers ever bless our people."

Get Floggers from Next County.

The trouble about getting evidence is the new method of the Klan in its floggings. They don't trouble to mask and whip in this county. They send for a squad from some other county, who arrive and depart in cars, and are not recognized.

The attorney general has trouble ahead of him. Watching him and the movements of his investigators is the staff of the state law enforcement squad, whose chief, Walter K. McAdory, has the entire confidence of the Anti-Saloon league. Mr. McCall expects to bring out, at the Lurverne flogging trials, which begin next Monday, just how the prohibition forces of the state are opposing his efforts to expose and punish Klan floggings. Against him in this trial will be W. H. Stoddard, Lurverne attorney, who knows all the affiliations of jurors; Horace Wilkerson, a friend and adviser of Gov. Bibb Graves, who has never denied Klan membership; Will Lee of Dothan, brother of Laurence Lee, legal adviser to the governor and a brother of Fitzhugh Lee of the Alabama public service commission, and A. R. Powell of Andalusia.

Expenses Are Criticized. Attorney Frank E. Bricken, one of the outstanding lawyers of the state, has been engaged to help the prosecution and the attorney general has been criticized for this, and called to account for his expenses. He has a few investigators of his own, but does not trust the state law enforcement division.

Cecil Davis, who is named as a Klan leader in the Crenshaw county grand jury report, has a state job as head of the cigar and tax collectors. Most of these collectors are said to be Klansmen or lesser Klansmen. The Crenshaw trial witnesses for the state have recently been seen in converse with James Edale, grand dragon, and other Klan leaders.

The witnesses were induced to talk after the utmost persuasion. One Negro who had been flogged denied it for thirteen days, but finally admitted it before the grand jury. Even then he tried to protect one of the floggers, a man from whom he rented a piece of land.

Women Balk Attack.

Two elderly women of the Lurverne district proved too much for the Klan. They are Mrs. C. V. Akerman and her sister, Mrs. Sallie Tomlin. The Klan visited them on three occasions. The second time the women took a shotgun and fired at the approaching masked men, wounding one in the leg and dispersing them. They returned again to rid the furniture with bullets, but the women were unmolested.

Dan Mitchell, a Greek artist near Clay, Ala., reports that two men called him from his house at 9 o'clock one evening, put a gun at his ribs, and marched him out to an automobile. He was taken along the road until they met a crowd of men in white robes, who said they wanted Dan Mitchell. He was blindfolded, taken to a secret place in the woods, flogged, and told to leave town. His back and legs were beaten black and blue. The instrument used was a heavy belt with a buckle on it.

Never to Be Told.

Dan's crime, according to the mob, was that he had been intimate with two young married women. He thought he recognized the voices of their husbands in the crowd. Over near Roanoke, Mrs. Luella Horn, 42, mother of 4, was taken from her home at Wedowee by a masked band of about 50 men and beaten. She was accused of improper relations with a neighbor.

Tom Garret, Negro mill hand, and two Negro women were taken to the Roanoke baseball park, it is reported, and beaten. Tom was forced to run the bases and the Klansmen, like the old Indian torturers, lined the way and hit him with clubs and sticks as he ran. So the stories run, and most of them will never be told.

Wide-awake Children Brought up on Father John's Medicine

BECAUSE her mother used it when she was a little girl, Mrs. J. J. Whitney, Melrose, Mass., knows the value of Father John's Medicine and has always used it for her own children. Mrs. Whitney, like thousands of mothers, has learned to depend on Father John's Medicine when any of the family has a cold or a cough, or has become weak or run down. Its pure food elements build new strength to throw off disease. Its healing properties soothe the throat irritation and it helps to drive out impurities. And it is free from alcohol and drugs.

Annual

Cold-Prevention Week

(Nov. 13 to 19, inclusive)

Break up that cold before it develops into something serious

This is the season for colds. Easy to catch, many are regarded lightly, totally neglected till they bring on more serious illness. Annual Cold-Prevention Week is a drive to keep colds, grippe, and sickness at a minimum. Co-operate by protecting yourself. Get a bottle of NOZOL.

COLDS are easy to take, but they're just as easy to get rid of and keep away, if you use NOZOL (pronounced "Nose-All").

A few drops of NOZOL in each nostril will, in a very short time, break up the heaviest head cold—will completely relieve that "clogged-up" condition, and re-establish free, easy breathing through the nose.

NOZOL affords wonderful prevention against colds because it completely destroys all germs which may lurk in the nasal passages, the place where most colds start. For this reason it is wise to have NOZOL handy at all times. At the slightest indication of a cold, or after exposure of any kind, play safe! Use NOZOL!

NOZOL is absolutely harmless. It is widely recommended by physicians and is used extensively in hospitals. Walgreen and Economical Drug Stores endorse it unqualifiedly, and guarantee your money back if NOZOL doesn't prove satisfactory in every way.

Floodlighting is advertising

Westinghouse Floodlighting Projectors are designed purely for floodlighting purposes—to meet the requirements of this unique application. The bodies are of cast metal—in welded joints of weather. The doors are air-tight, and ample ventilation unnecessary—water, dirt and smoke can't enter. The lens is heat-resisting—rays can't destroy it. The reflectors are highly accurate, with perfect beam control. The initial efficiency is permanent efficiency. MANUFACTURER, INDICTED, ENDS LIFE AT CLUB

H. G. Steinbrenner Shoots Himself.

H. G. Steinbrenner, vice president of the Brown Hotel company, who was indicted on charges of embezzling the funds of the company, was found shot to death yesterday in his room in the South Shore Country Club.

A visit by a postoffice inspector is believed to have been the immediate cause of Steinbrenner's suicide. He had been told that his situation had become unbearable. After his death, however, it was disclosed that the inspector's visit was merely a routine check on his address.

Was Arrested in Seattle.

Steinbrenner was arrested in Seattle Nov. 1 after an extended search by federal agents. Postal authorities charged him with wrecking banks in Washington and Huntington, Ind., by check kiting. Later he was released on $5,000 bond and his hearing was set for Nov. 21 in Indianapolis.

On Tuesday when Steinbrenner returned to his home at 1369 Hyde Park boulevard he was told that D. F. Lyons, a postoffice inspector, had called. He went out and did not return. Instead he engaged a room at the Country Club.

"Dear sweetheart," he had written his wife, "to have had and lost has become unbearable. I want you all to forgive me and to forget me. I regret exceedingly the trouble I have caused you all."

Wishes Wife Happiness.

"My dear wife, the best that God ever created. I wish her happiness and every comfort for the balance of her life. Take good care of Jack and Kent. I hope they will be successful and a credit to their parents. I also wish Pierre and Irene every comfort, happiness and success. May they live long and prosper. Sorry."

Steinbrenner, who was 59, had been associated with the Brown Hotel company for thirty years. A son, Harold F. Steinbrenner, 3440 Jeffrey avenue, was a member of the Northwestern university football team years ago.

FIRE IN WAREHOUSE MAY HAVE CAUSED MILLIONAIRE'S DEATH

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—J. A. Mellish, wealthy storage warehouse company owner and husband of Mme. Mary Mellish, Metropolitan Opera star, was believed to have lost his life in the fire which destroyed his automobile warehouse today, causing damage estimated at more than $2,000,000.

Several hours after the fire had been extinguished Mellish had not returned to his Riverside drive home nor had any one reported seeing him since he was seen dashing into the blazing building. Mme. Mellish was said to have been on the verge of collapse.

Mellish, police were told, ran from the warehouse after the explosion which started the blaze. He turned and ran back towards his offices on the third floor.

SENATOR GLASS SHOOTS THE WORKS.

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia has allowed himself to be smoked out on the subject of the fourteenth, fifteenth, and eighteenth amendments to the federal constitution. He came out handsomely, completely, and defiantly, and before he stopped bawling he had covered the whole field. The southern states, he said, did not submit to the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments and did not intend to. It was true, he said, that no southern state had on its statute book laws which restricted Negro voting in any fashion in violation of the constitution, but that did not reveal the intent of the southern whites with regard to the amendments in question. They were not in effect and they were not to go into effect.

Senator Glass might have made the customary technical evasion of the question, but he was obviously in a jovial mood and nobly declined to avail himself of small subtleties. All other prominent dyes have been rather pitiful when confronted with the facts. That includes Mr. Glass' distinguished colleague of the other party, Senator Borah. Mr. Borah, trying to discuss the fourteenth, fifteenth, and eighteenth amendments, never gets out of a confused stutter. What he says may have effectiveness if it has the strength of his personality behind it, but in print his logic is plainly weak.

Mr. Glass had the mental and moral decency to speak as a man honestly declaring himself and taking his chances. And what it came to was this: Virginia, South Carolina, Mississippi, etc., do not like the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments and consequently do not abide by them. The amendments are as dead in the south as they were never passed, so far as they were designed to give the blacks citizenship equality with the whites. They are not nullified by laws. That is not necessary. As Senator Glass says, the white people "have complete control of their affairs without the least fear of disturbance by the blacks." That is true, and it is a condition not contemplated by the amendments.

The south has two amendments which it holds in contempt and it is able to conduct its affairs as if these amendments were not in the constitution. But it is a different matter if New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Illinois, etc., do not like the eighteenth amendment. There Senator Glass makes himself entirely clear. If the states opposed to the eighteenth amendment do not like it they will be made to like it. No one else has set the matter forth so plainly.

To Senator Glass the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments are "unpardonable crimes." They would have established "an Ethiopian state, ignorant, profligate, and corrupt." He likes the eighteenth amendment, and therefore opposition to it is criminal and not to be tolerated. Although the southern senator does not stutter, he does, however, get himself in a hole.

The way to deal with a matter of law, we are told by the dyes, is not to evade but to repeal it. The fact may be accepted that the whites of the south would not live under Negro government. But the remedy suggested by the dyes to the west in the case of the eighteenth amendment is to repeal it.

Has that occurred to Senator Glass, and when has he undertaken to set such machinery in motion? Or is he content with the condition the south has, no matter how it is produced? Senator Borah says that a law must be obeyed or repealed. When did he in all his years of congressional life undertake to enforce the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, which his colleague, Senator Glass, says are dead? It is his duty under the constitution to reduce the representation of states which deny voting rights, as Senator Glass says they are denied in the south.

Mr. Borah has not moved to enforce amendments which presumably to him are as sacred as any others, nor has Mr. Glass moved to repeal amendments which to him are criminal both in intent and in the manner in which they were forced on the people of the south. Both Mr. Glass and Mr. Borah are dyes, and both find it convenient and possible to talk a great deal of the eighteenth amendment and to do nothing whatever as to the fourteenth and fifteenth.

Indeed, they think it is childish and stupid, as Mr. Glass says, to refer at all to the latter matter, although Mr. Glass, when properly aroused, is capable of doing some honest, straightforward talking about it. The eighteenth amendment has the force of the federal government behind it. That government is not doing in this case what it has done for the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments. It has not died on the job. Congress votes the appropriations for which the Anti-Saloon league asks. The administration defers to the judgment of the Anti-Saloon league. The eighteenth amendment is not nullified. The fourteenth and fifteenth are, with the consent and approval of Mr. Borah, Mr. Glass, and, seemingly, all members of the United States senate and house of representatives.

In itself this hypocrisy is tiring. The nation has been content to have the south work out its great problem in the fashion its dominant classes found most expedient and practical. The Republican party will not undertake to probe the moral leanings of the old border states. But it is repugnant to the intellectual decency to continue this dry parade of moralities. The moralities need clean hands. They are not recognized when the dyes handle them. The national conscience is enfeebled by the deprivation of truth garbed as moral fundamentals. Presently the American people will not have an honest hair on their heads. They will be incapable of introspection and analysis. They will do nothing but crooked thinking, and the last thing they will try to do will be to be on the square with themselves.

Mr. Glass as a dry believes in sending federal agents everywhere to enforce the eighteenth amendment, and it evidently made him mad when some one suggested that federal agents be used to see that there was an honest election in Kentucky. In his anger he blew the lid off with a wholesome candor before any of his fellows in thought could get to him and suppress him.

The hypocrisy has been so thick that Mr. Glass was as a breath of fresh air in a suffocating room. He could not help stuffy himself, in spite of his frankness, or because of it, but that is inescapable when a man believes that the constitution is valid only as it satisfies his desires.

THE AIRPORT.

During the first six months of 1927, civilian owned airplanes flew 12,377,933 miles and carried 395,646 passengers. These official figures from the department of commerce do not include the mileage of private planes, manufacturers' flights, or contests and races.

America does not need to look to Europe any longer when the talk is on commercial aviation. It is here in the United States and, though still young, is growing rapidly.

Is Chicago going to get into the game while it is still young? Is Chicago going to take the place rightfully belonging to it as the transportation center of the country? Clarence Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic flyer, said the world's best air field was at Berlin, and America's best at Detroit. Chicago is lagging.

The answer, of course, is for the city to join with the south park board in building the new island field along the lake shore between 16th and 31st streets. Its location, within twelve minutes of the center of the city, can be duplicated by no other city anywhere near Chicago's size. With the exercise of skill and enterprise it can be equipped to surpass all other existing airports.

So it is surprising to hear Mr. Wolfe, the city commissioner of public works, say that the administration is not ready to go along with the south park board. Nor are Mr. Wolfe's arguments convincing of anything else than that this is another case of jealousy between jurisdictions. So far as the public is concerned it does not matter who builds the airport. The main thing is in getting it built on the best location.

It happens that the south park board has the money at hand. The city hasn't. Since time is an important element, the city ought to get behind the board and push the work to a speedy completion.

INDIFFERENTLY CRAZY.

One radical university professor spells fear. A faculty composed of radical professors spells torpor. A university manned with a radical faculty and headed by a radical president means that that university will win the reputation of being slightly off color—spelling eventual disrepute and oblivion.

We are moved, of course, by the University of Wisconsin, where the dwindling away of the R. O. T. C. is but one of the many manifestations of the institution's pacifist character.

A university is necessary, if it is to fulfill its function of teaching the young to think, a place where freedom of opinion and speech should be fostered. The radical professor is an essential tonic. But when trustees, president, faculty, and student body all seem to be so overwhelmingly enthused over one radical view, then radicalism becomes, not tonic, but toxic.

One nut is an amusement. A bunch of nuts is an asylum. It is worth noting that of the Wisconsin faculty members quoted in a recent article the pacifists and internationalists were professors of the more abstract sciences. Dr. Frederic L. Paxson, whose research and writings have made him a leading authority on the history of the frontier, is a professor of fact and realism. And he is a nationalist; he served in the war, and would serve again.

He doubts whether military training has a place in the university, but he does not doubt military training. "They are too indifferent to study the essentials of the situation," Dr. Paxson sums up the attitude of the University of Wisconsin pacifists.

Which is, perhaps, the most telling comment possible concerning a group which prides itself on its intellectual activity and its honesty of judgment.

Editorial of the Day

THE DIRECT PRIMARY.

(The Davenport (Ia.) Daily Times.)

The Illinois primary law passed at the last session of the legislature, which was believed to be in accordance with the state constitution, has been declared unconstitutional by Judge Harry M. Fisher in Chicago.

Judge Fisher in his ruling expressed a doubt as to the value of the primary. In an answer to the plea that finding the law invalid would cause a return to conditions existing before the days of the direct primary, Judge Fisher held it is "at least debatable whether the state would suffer if left without a direct primary law."

Certainly, in view of the state of politics in Illinois, the Chicago jurist will have no difficulty in finding people to agree with him in regard to the doubtful value of the primary. Gov. Small, however, is not among them. In his statement regarding the calling of the legislature, the governor asserted:

"The people of Illinois do not want to return to the days of boss ridden conventions controlled by powerful interests inimical to the welfare of the people. Should the Illinois direct primary law be declared void by our highest court, I shall deem it my duty to convene the general assembly in extraordinary session so that new statutes may be enacted giving to the people their right to nominate, by their own votes, their party candidates."

The people may be pardoned if they smile at the governor's fear of bosses. In view of the way in which Small lines up his cohorts, it must be conceded that he is considerable of a boss himself. In fact, the state of Illinois has never had a political leader any more handy in bossing than the present governor, and he has done it under the direct primary.

GOOD NURSING NEEDED FOR MEASLES.

THE key to keeping the typhus of children threatened by measles is to get good nursing and medical service for them. This is the opinion of Dr. George C. Ruhland of Syracuse, New York, and it is carried by Dr. R. C. Levy of Tampa, Fla. Both have had wide experience.

Measles is so very contagious, especially just before and just after the child takes sick, that it is practically impossible to prevent it from spreading during an epidemic. Putting a placard on the door does almost no good, partly because the case is not reported until late, and time is required for the report to get to the health department and the inspector from the department to put the card up. Before all these wheels have turned many people have been infected. It is not of much service to lock the stable door after the horse has been abstracted.

The vaccines we are now using are good enough when we can get them, but they are not easily gotten. Measles, of itself, is not serious. But the complications are very serious. The complications try to guess whether there will be complications in a given case they put the child in unnecessary danger.

The plan which Dr. Levy used several years ago, and which Dr. Ruhland employed in a recent outbreak, is to get in touch with every family that was scheduled to have measles and tell them what to do when measles appeared.

When a school child developed measles a nurse or a physician went to the home and told the parents just the day when the other children could be expected to get sick and how to nurse them and take care of them. In some cases what were the symptoms which indicated that a child was due to break out in a day or two; just when the child became infected; just how to keep the skin clean, well ventilated, and moist; and how to make the child comfortable and to protect him against pneumonia and other complications.

Special stress was put on taking care of children under three years of age. The group under the first time in the hospital was excluded all exposed children for two weeks after exposure in some places, and for five days between the ninth and the fourteenth days after exposure in others. This plan seems to be a do-nothing program, but it gets results because it is now the custom not to report measles, not to call in a doctor.

DUTABLE IMPROV. Chicago, Nov. 12.—[Friend of the People.] Will you kindly inform me what year congress passed the law that exempts an American citizen returning to this country from abroad from paying duty on goods purchased in Europe to the extent of $100, and when this law became effective? D. B. Q.

REGARDING THE EXEMPTION FROM DUTY OF ARTICLES ACQUIRED ABROAD BY RETURNING RESIDENTS OF THE UNITED STATES NOT EXCEEDING $100 IN VALUE. You are advised that this provision applied for the first time in the tariff act of July 24, 1897, commonly known as the Dingley law. The act became effective on August 1, 1897. This provision has been incorporated in all subsequent acts, viz: The tariff act of Aug. 5, 1909, known as the Payne-Aldrich law, the act of Oct. 3, 1913, known as the Underwood law, and the act of Sept. 21, 1922, known as the McCarver-Fordney law.

QUESTION OF ETHICS. Chicago, Nov. 12.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I. What can be done about an attorney for discouraging a reconciliation for a divorce action, and also what I can do as fixing the whole case so that it is a plain matter of law, such as eliminating publicity and having the case tried in the judge's chambers? P. E. S.

On certain facts this might be the proper course to take. If you can show that it was improper we would suggest reporting the facts to the bar association. We see no legal objection to the publication of this letter. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LIABILITY FOR RENT. Chicago, Nov. 12.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Could a landlord hold the wife of a tenant responsible for rent of apartment after she has notified him that her husband has left her without any support, and that she intends moving out in one month's time after notice? Lease expires April 30. Husband's whereabouts unknown. J. M. B.

If the wife did not sign the lease, in our opinion she would not be liable for rent accruing after she moved out. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CAUSE FOR COMPLAINT. Chicago, Nov. 12.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband has left me with our four children and is now living with a married woman. Is there any way that I can stop him from living with her? He earns very good money and I wonder if there is a way that I can stop him to make him support the children. I haven't any money or I would put the case in the hands of a lawyer. N. S.

LOVE LYRIC.

I wish that Genevieve was mine,
I love her;
I swear by all the stars that shine
Above her
And like the little stars that vie
With diamonds up in the sky—
She lights my life—that's how much I Think of her.

If she but knew how much I cared
About her,
She'd understand why I've not dared
To doubt her;
She's blonde—I never like brunettes
Or girls that smoke those cigars,
I'll even love her if she gets Much stouter.

Her image dear within my heart
I've carried;
Although the thrust of Cupid's dart
I've parried;
For though I love her more than life
I couldn't take her for a wife,
It might engender too much strife,
I'm married.

THEY'VE GIVEN UP the idea of having a silent night in Chicago. What, with Big Bull shooting at King George III., J. Lewis Gosh shooting at Supt. McAndrew, and the gin and beer boys shooting at each other, what chance was there ever to have a silent night in Chicago?

And, Gosh, How We Dread It!

RH: In the line 't'other day some one wrote asking why don't "women unshackle themselves of age-old conventions," etc. Gosh, Richard, you oughtn't to be putting notions like that into dames' heads. But if she tries the acid test on her Phi Kappa Sigma she'll find it's only a second hand Phi Delta Theta that somebody painted up and worked off on her as a genuine new model six cylinder Phi Kappa. Anyhow, here's one Phi Kappa she doesn't know and couldn't get. P. K. S.

OSWALD ACCEPTS A POSITION.

Dick: Saturday I was still applying for a job. This man was my last hope. I'd asked every one else in Chicago. My intended employer looked me over, making mental note of my aggressive chin, my fearless eyes, and, of course, my necktie—you've seen it.

"You were born—"
"Yes," I admitted.
"Been to college," he snapped.
"Yes," I alleged, "but we couldn't beat Bradley."
"Owe any money?"
I answered truthfully.

"I handed him the city directory of Bloomington, Ill."
"Drink!"
"Thanks, I don't mind if I do."
"What's your present occupation?"
"I'm a line contributor," I told him, "I'm Oswald of Wexleyan."

"Oh," said the man, grabbing my hand, "you begin right now. Will a thousand a week be all right?"
"Yes, to start on," I said, and took the job.

FROM A WISCONSIN ALUMNUS.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Your articles on the subject of pacifism in the University of Wisconsin are somewhat misleading. On numerous occasions you have run editorials, asserting that football is a splendid means of keeping the youth fit. Personally, I think it is far superior to any two hour a week military drill. Perhaps you did not know when you wrote your articles that 800 men are playing football daily at the University of Wisconsin.

If you will read Ludwig's recent book on William Hohenzollern, you will learn, among other things, that the Kaiser was the greatest sword flourisher in the world until the war came. Under actual war conditions he was no soldier at all. I would rather gamble on the future value to the country of 800 football players than on the corresponding value of 800 men who elected two hours a week of military drill in preference to football. I imagine that you agree with me on this point.

The athletic council at the university has recently taken preliminary steps towards giving recognition to rifle shooting by making it an intercollegiate sport. Does this indicate a pacifist spirit? In any university the number of men who become interested in a particular line of endeavor depends, in a large measure, on the personality of the man at the head of it. George Little has increased the number of men who play football by several hundred since he went to Madison. I do not know the great government officer at the university, but, if the number of students who elect military drill is falling off, I should suspect that possibly a different representative of the war department might change the situation.

The University of Wisconsin has as fine a record in the world, statistically, or on any other basis, as any institution in the country, and you need not worry about its having an equally good record in the next war.

If you endeavor to judge the university by the number who elect military drill, however, you are quite likely to be misled. In my time (1908-1912) almost all of the students (most of whom later served in the world war) were glad to escape the two hour a week military drill. I think the explanation was that there was not enough of it to give a taste of real military life; it involved a considerable expense, for those days, in the purchase of uniforms, and it gave only the most barebones and not the interesting part of military life. It consisted almost entirely of infantry drill. Target practice, to the extent that we were able to get it, was eagerly sought after by the boys, but facilities did not permit much of it. Probably you know that target practice is more interesting than doing "squad right." So is riding practice, artillery, schooling, aviation groundwork, etc. If times have not changed, I can readily understand how a boy, who is not a pacifist, would be glad to avoid two hours a week of "squad right." 100 PER CENT GODIVA.
Chicago, Nov. 14.—Mr. Rebori and Mr. Marshall want Godiva. Mr. Rebori wants one; Mr. Marshall, being more liberal, wants seven. Why so few Godivas? My suspicion is to have every lady attend the ball in a Godiva costume. Godiva had blonde hair, but I do not think the public cares whether she is a blonde, redhead, or brunette. If my suggestion is followed out, I do not think the Stevens hotel ballroom will accommodate all who buy tickets.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—After several hours of pressure to finish certain duties at my office I hurried in a taxi to the Northwestern station on Saturday. Business at the office had delayed me, so that I had barely enough time to make a Northwestern train. We tried to cross the river over several streets, but were finally delayed at Washington street and missed the train. I felt assured that the boat which had caused annoyance to last 400 motorists, to my knowledge, and which had caused the expense of opening several bridges, was a most

THE WORK OF NEGRO ARTISTS.
Chicago, Nov. 14.—The coming exhibition of art works by colored artists calls to me many pleasant memories of H. O. Tanner and William A. Rugeley. The former I knew in old time days, when this modest American went to astonish and delight Paris with his strangely beautiful renderings of natural subjects. Tanner's work was very original and his use of color was only a personal expression but almost delightful.

Will Harper was in his time the student of the Art Institute. This student, who was obliged to work in the school, continued to work in the ways original and his use of color was only a personal expression but almost delightful.

ORDER $100,000 LEVY ON FALL TRIAL FUGITIVE

Court Cites Blackmer in Contempt Action.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—(Special.)—While the grand jury debated indictments in the Teapot Dome jury fixing scandal the government today turned its efforts toward the punishment of Harry M. Blackmer, millionaire oil man, who fled to France several years ago rather than testify in the Sinclair-Fall conspiracy trial.

An order entered by Justice Frederick L. Siddons directed Federal Marshal E. C. Snyder to seize $100,000 worth of Blackmer's property wherever it may be found within the United States and summoned Blackmer himself to appear on Jan. 4 to show cause why he should not be held in contempt and his property confiscated.

Sought As Key Witness.

Blackmer, as the actual organizer of the Continental Trading company, Ltd., has been sought by the government as its key witness in the vital count of the indictment which charges Harry F. Sinclair with having paid Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, $230,500 in Liberty bonds for the right to drill the navy's Teapot Dome oil reserve in Wyoming.

The Continental Trading company, Ltd., was a "dummy" Canadian concern, inspired by Sinclair, the government alleges. According to the record, it bought and sold 33,333 barrels of crude oil at a net profit of 25 cents a barrel in a single day and went out of business immediately. Part of the concern's profits, in the form of $230,500 of Liberty bonds, were traced by their serial registry numbers from the company's New York bank into Fall's possession.

Fled to France.

The nominal president of the company—H. F. Oiler of Toronto, Ont., Canada—claimed his Canadian citizenship to evade testifying in the trial. Blackmer fled to France as soon as the Teapot Dome scandal broke. Sinclair and Fall have both refused to tell what they know of the Liberty bonds.

The order entered by Justice Siddons calls upon American consuls in Europe to make every effort to serve the summons on Blackmer. A copy was forwarded at once to Blackmer's counsel, Nathan Miller, former governor of New York.

Indications from the grand jury room today were that no indictments will be returned before Saturday and

BRITISH DISTANCE ACES MISSING

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—No word was received all day today of the progress of Capt. R. H. Macintosh and Bert Hinkler, aviators, who set out yesterday from Upaven to break the distance record for nonstop flights, now held by the Americans, Clarence Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine.

The only news from the flyers was that they had been sighted passing over Manston aerodrome at Kent, England, 120 miles from their starting point, yesterday.

The air ministry looked upon the lack of news as good news in the belief that any accident to the flyers would be reported quickly.

Estimating the plane's speed at 30 miles an hour, observers calculated that their monoplane, the Princess Zenia, must have been well over Asia tonight unless forced down. The 4,000 mile route of the flyers to Karachi, India, lies across Germany, Poland, southern Russia, the Caspian sea and Afghanistan. The Princess Zenia carried fuel for 50 hours.

NEW $5,000,000 ART INSTITUTE PLAN APPROVED

square feet and the cost of its improvement is estimated at $150,000. To the south would be the large armory and community house covering an area of 393 by 243 feet.

Museum of Trophies.

The community hall with a museum of war trophies would be in the front of the three story structure of stone. Farther south would be the gymnasium, lockers, club hall and a swimming tank 75 by 30 feet.

In the center of the structure is planned the largest tank bark arena in any enclosed structure in the country. It is to be surrounded by a gallery with a capacity of 8,500. It is expected to attract the horse shows and polo games and like attractions.

The 124th field artillery is now housed in the old Westworth avenue armory of the old Seventh regiment. The state has appropriated $500,000 for the new structure, but Gen. Keen and the architect estimate that as much more, at least, will be needed to carry out the program.

The completion of the north end of Soldiers' field and the finishing of interior spaces is expected to cost between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000.

Although there was considerable discussion yesterday of the extension of the outer park system in the lake from Jackson park to Calumet park, it was agreed that the commissioners at their next meeting will listen to a large south side delegation on that subject. George Bolling said that the residents have some suggestions to make.

HUNT STOLEN $10,000 SILLS.

Highways leading to Chicago were being watched yesterday for a two ton truck containing $10,000 worth of silks taken from the driver on the Duane highway east of Michigan City, Ind. Harold Farley reported that two men forced him from the car at Dyer, Ind. The truck is owned by Corey J. Evans, owner of Fort Wayne, Ind.

ARTISTS PLAN BIT OF COMPETITION FOR LADY GODIVA

Lady Godiva, if she appears at the Arts hall in the Stevens hotel on Nov. 25, will have some rivals in the modern artists group, it developed yesterday. This group is headed by Rudolph Welsborn and Mrs. Howard J. Cunningham.

"Lady Godiva is much too obvious to be artistic according to the modern idea of art," said Mrs. Cunningham yesterday. "We intend to achieve the effect of nudity with piquancy of garments."

Miss Marian Gheen, chairman of groups for the ball, who has threatened to resign if A. N. Rebori, chairman of the pageant, does not retreat from his determination to have Lady Godiva open the display, yesterday said she would preside today at a luncheon of the executive committee at the Stevens.

"Mr. Rebori has not won by any means," she said. "The vote in favor of Lady Godiva taken at his meeting Tuesday does not indicate the attitude of the entire executive committee. Several members were not present."

DUKE PLEADS HIS RIGHT TO DO AS THE ROMANS DO

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Charges of infidelity brought by the Duchess Mary Elsie Moore Torlonia against her husband, Duke Marino Torlonia of Rome, were countered in Superior court here today by testimony designed to show that under Italian law the acts alleged do not assume the legal significance they have under American law.

The case of Duchess Torlonia, who is suing for divorce on the grounds of infidelity, was rested, and taking of testimony for the defense was concluded today.

Duchess Torlonia, formerly Elsie Morse of Greenwich, took the stand in her own behalf today and told of her discovery that her husband was maintaining improper relationships with Maria Lorenzino of Rome, how she visited Miss Lorenzino to learn of actual conditions, attempted to trail her husband, and of how he knocked her down with the back of a heavy mahogany chair after an altercation.

In December, 1925, accompanied by her three children, she returned to this country, resumed her residence in Greenwich, and begun naturalization and divorce proceedings.

Both in cross-examination and through the testimony of its one witness the defense carried through two main contentions: that the duchess is absent from her husband, illegally and that such are the differences in the status of husband and wife, under Italian law, that for Duke Torlonia the offenses complained of do not assume the seriousness they would under American law.

BEAUTIFUL and responsive to a degree never before attained... today's motoring taste and standard in a strikingly new and masterful interpretation.

THE GREATEST GIFT TO GROWING MINDS

YOU have been saving your money for a present that your child will always remember. You are tired of toys that are all too soon broken, outgrown and cast aside. You want this Christmas to be something lasting and beautiful. Let this be the most memorable Christmas in your child's life.

The BOOK of KNOWLEDGE

"There is something missing from the lives of children who grow up without it."

Keeps the Children Happy at Home

This delightful work makes many a home a happier, more attractive center of boy and girl life—they find in its 18 great departments a never failing interest and stimulation. The department of Wonder answers their questions. Family Talks carries them on fascinating visits to the great wonders of the world. The Book of Life tells of our bodies and our minds, and the principles of conduct in all countries and the United States they read of foreign lands and their people and of our own great nation. Literature, The Arts, Science, Famous Books, Men and Women and Golden Deeds spread before them the cultural treasures of all the world. The department of Things to make and do contains games to keep their restless minds busy, and work for their restless fingers. Maps to Learning and the School Subject Guide make the way easier to knowledge. The magic gift of knowledge will delight them today and will help them over many of the hard places, in the days to come.

15,000 Pictures That Teach. All the pictures in the Book of Knowledge have something important to say. They are not just "pretty pictures." They illustrate the facts and truths of science; the fascinating life of the animal and plant world; the life of the ocean, stream and river; the secrets of the story universe. They display in rich colors and soft grays the masterpieces of painting, sculpture and architecture. There are nearly 1,000 portraits of famous men and women—a picture gallery of those who have done great and beautiful things. The majority of these portraits are accompanied by a brief life story interestingly told. The story of the great industries is told in words and pictures. These 15,000 educational pictures form a connected history of the world's life and development impossible to grasp with the written word alone. It is visual education in its finest form. Make your boy or girl happy with the Book of Knowledge. The magic gift of knowledge will delight them today and will help them over many of the hard places, in the days to come.

PEKING FACES FAMINE WINTER TO TUNE OF GUNS

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
PEKING, China, Nov. 15.—The war in China has been brought closer to the people of Peking in the last few weeks than ever before. Not only Peking, but all China is suffering from the ravages of war. The fighters and the people are exhausted.
Day by day the entire situation in China becomes more chaotic, and while the government sits in Peking it is a mere dictatorship of the military. Minor dictators rule other provinces and no one pays any attention to them. The people everywhere suffer enormous tax drains to fatten the military purse and yet the soldiers in all but a few armies are unpaid. In some regions military organizations have been broken up and brigandage is the result. Business is stagnant; very little money is circulating; food supplies are becoming scarce and a dreary winter is ahead.

Cannon Heard in City.

There is not a constructive force in sight, and while the drastic measures adopted by Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian war lord who rules in Peking, have kept a fair amount of order in Peking itself, the suffering of the people is increasing. As I write the sound of gun-firing is heard in the mountains, which in some cases are only eight miles from the capital. Although the Shanai armies, which eschewed a drive in October for the capture of Peking were beaten, they were not destroyed, but merely scattered.

The center of the Shanai advance, a giant raiding party, reached Chochow, a railway station forty miles from Peking, and cut communications there, while a smaller party reached an important bridge only 11 miles from the capital and another came to the railway only nineteen miles from Chienmen station. And in the mountains which half encircle the capital large bodies, including artillery, stormed through the passes and were engaged upon the plains sometimes within twelve miles of the palace in the forbidden city.

Meanwhile, Peking was put under martial law. The very elements which had planned to divide the armies of Chang Tso-Lin also slipped about 8,000 men secretly into the city. These met in small groups to await the signal for a rising within the walls when their comrades should hammer at the city gates. Because of their efforts food supplies and coal shipments failed to reach the city.

There is a prospect that Peking will have lightless nights and foodless days this winter. The electric light plant already is reducing the current and the food shortage has resulted in high prices than the people can pay. But what is worse, even when the fighting before the city gates dies down there will be but limited supplies of fuel and food for the winter months, for the military have carried off most of the freight cars and the camels, donkeys and carts, needed for transportation, to say nothing of the food the farmers had ready for the market.

Hankow to Suffer.

Tientsin, Shanghai and Canton, being seaports, probably will suffer least from the chaotic conditions, but large interior industrial centers like Hankow, 600 miles up the Yangtze, with a 1,500,000 population within a radius of three miles, will suffer most. Inland centers like Changsha probably will be isolated.

A great change of sentiment has occurred in Hankow. There is a feeling among the Chinese that the foreign concessions should be restored so business may be resumed, for Hankow is chiefly important as a shipping center for the products of the interior. In the autumn and early winter ocean going vessels come right up to the bund. At other seasons there is transshipment at Shanghai. Beyond Hankow lie 2,000 miles of navigable tributary waterways.

U. S. MISSION IN CHINA PERILED, CANTON REPORT

LONDON, Nov. 15.—(P)—Reports have been received at Canton that the American mission at Yuenkong is threatened, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Hongkong says.

Native Workers at Mission.

New York, Nov. 15.—(P)—The Presbyterian board of foreign missions had no information today that other than native workers were at the mission at Yuenkong.

Halt Nanking Forces.

PEKING, China, Nov. 15.—(P)—Counter attacks by northern forces in the provinces of Anhwei and Shantung have halted the Nanking nationalist advance northward on Peking, advices from Tientsin say.

The dispatches say that Gen. Sun Chuan-fang has recaptured the important railroad junction of Linhaiwan, on the Hwai river in the province of Anhwei.

PLOT DOCUMENTS FAKES, MEXICAN EMBASSY SAYS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—(Special.)—Charges that the documents now being published throughout the United States as copies of Mexican state papers were once used by "certain parties" in an attempt to blackmail the Mexican government into buying them for $25,000 were made by the Mexican embassy here today on orders from Mexico City.

Mexican officials asserted that publication of the documents, which purport to show that Mexico financed the Nicaraguan revolutionary movement, is simply a move to hinder the United States and Mexico from reaching an accord on present controversial issues.

"These faked documents were offered for sale for $25,000 to our consulate in Los Angeles on Aug. 24," the statement said. "Our consul was ordered to refuse the offer and to inform the sellers that the Mexican government was not interested in them."

RUSSIA IS REAL MENACE TO U. S., D. A. R. WARNED

Speakers Decry Mayor's Attack on England.

It was not the roaring of the British lion but the baying of the Russian wolf hound which concerned the daughters of the American Revolution, who assembled yesterday at the Hotel La Salle for its national defense meeting.

Mrs. Alfred Brossau, national president general, denied that the D. A. R. is backing Mayor Thompson in his "Don Quixote fight against the windmills of British propaganda."

"We are 100 per cent American, but neither anti nor pro any nation in the world," said Mrs. Brossau. "We ask only that the textbooks used by our children shall be like the old ones we studied, and that a proper veneration for American ideals and patriots be taught the young."

Fears Internationalism.

Mrs. Brossau suggested that a more insidious, more dangerous propaganda than that aimed at by Mayor Thompson was at work in the country in the form of internationalism, "in an organized effort to cripple the appropriations of money carrying out the provisions of the national defense act."

"There is a vague for depreciation just now," she said. "Atheism is being sponsored by certain active agencies. Old ideals are ridiculed and ridicule is a most effective weapon on the young. We do not want Russia's new order here."

Defense of England.

"They talk 'hands off China,' 'hands off Mexico,' 'hands off Nicaragua,' etc., but carrying out these policies is like shaking hands with the devil," he said. "Soviet agents are active in these countries. Russian propagandists are men who believe in their idea as you believe in religion. They would die for it and they will spread it wherever and however they can unless forcibly checked. To say that communistic propaganda is getting nowhere is foolish. Eleven years ago the soviet organization was nonexistent. Today no great nation of the world can meet in conference with others without taking it into account."

Reputed Millionaire's

New York, Nov. 14.—(Special.)—Raymond L. Ramsdell, vice president of the United Cigar stores, who died Nov. 3, reputedly worth several millions, left an estate of less than $10,000. It was shown today when his will was filed for probate.

Romans March on French and Serb Envoys; Routed by Police

(Copyright, 1927, By The New York Times.)

ROME, Nov. 14.—Latent resentment and irritation over the signature of the Franco-Yugo-Slav treaty of friendship, fanned by reports from Jugo-Slavia of many anti-Italian outbreaks, exploded today. Hostile Italian students tried to stage demonstrations against the Jugo-Slav legation and the French embassy. The police, recently ordered to redouble their vigilance at these danger spots, easily dispersed the demonstrators after a short tussle.

March on Serb Embassy.

Several hundred university students collected this morning and moved through the main thoroughfare toward the Jugo-Slav legation, gathering new adherents as they went. They were met by a strong police force, which headed them off and dispersed them after a short struggle.

The demonstrators formed again and tried to reach the French embassy. Here again, however, they found all roads barred by the police, who, partly by force and partly by argument, succeeded in inducing them to desist from their plan. It is understood the government has given severe orders to prevent the repetition of such scenes. The demonstration, quite unimportant in itself, shows the state of mind treated in Italy by the recent Franco-Yugo-Slav treaty. It is evident after the quarrels marring the Italo-Yugo-Slav relations that France could not enter into a treaty with Jugo-Slavia without appearing to endorse its anti-Italian policies. This, at any rate, is the interpretation universally given the treaty here.

Rouse Italians' Ire.
This viewpoint was immediately confirmed by the Jugo-Slav press, which aroused Italian ire by boasting that the treaty "put Italy in its place" and shattered Mussolini's aggressive move in the Balkans. The tension reached a snapping point when reports said demonstrations had occurred in many cities of Jugo-Slavia in which the Italian flag was insulted and hostile cries uttered.

See Armies Against Italy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, Nov. 14.—Enormous orders for steel, leather and wood are being placed in Germany by the French on their reparations account. The goods are delivered to French agents at the frontier and shipped to Jugo-Slavia. The Germans are delighted over this development as each mark's worth of goods which is delivered to France frees them from delivery of a mark in cash under the Dawes plan. It is believed in diplomatic circles that France is arming Jugo-Slavia against Italy.

BOY IS KNOCKED OFF BICYCLE BY AUTO; KILLED

One death from an automobile accident yesterday raised Cook county's 1927 motor toll to $21.

Joseph Schwartz, 12 years old, 7305 Oakley avenue, was fatally injured when he was knocked from his bicycle at Honore and 51st streets by an automobile driven by Gustav Anderson, 2451 West 64th street.

Fire department squad No. 6, answering a call to 7192 West Grand avenue, found William Tierney, 58 years old, a veteran of 30 years in the city's service, near death from a skull fracture received when he was struck by an automobile at Grand and Natchez avenues. The firemen, under Lieut. Gus Gerstung, made an emergency run with their injured comrade to St. Elizabeth's hospital. Tierney, who resides at 1009 North Ridgeway avenue, has been attached to company No. 125 the last few years. Cragin police held the driver of the car, Carroll Schroeder, 2027 North Tripp avenue.

DELAYS HEARING MRS. YOUMANS' ALIMONY PLEA

A year or so ago, Vincent Youmans, impetuous and song writer, wrote: "We will raise a family, A little girl for you, A little boy for me, O, don't you see How happy we will be."

Yesterday Youmans, not yet 30, but with a reputed income of $500,000 a year from his stage productions, was before Superior Judge John J. Sullivan. Mrs. Anne Varley Youmans, former dancer in one of his shows, two and a half months old. But there was no song of happiness, because the stage was set for her motion for temporary alimony in her separate maintenance suit. The hearing was continued until Monday for George L. Schein, new counsel for the playwrite, to familiarize himself with the case.

Life actually prolonged!

By keeping the system
cleansed of poisons

MEN of science are constantly working on a problem vital to the human race—longevity! They find that one of the surest ways to increase your span of life is to keep the intestines cleansed of poisons due to wrong habits of living and eating and to delayed elimination. They find everybody in danger of this condition—everybody suffering from it at times.

Many of our foremost scientists recommend the use of Nujol as a harmless corrective and preventive. For Nujol does both things for you because it has the peculiar quality of not being absorbed by the system at all. But Nujol does absorb body poisons. Carries them away right out of the system. Corrects internal difficulties. If taken faithfully Nujol makes impossible delayed elimination and the absorption of poisons into the blood. Thus it acts as a preventive. Your whole system will benefit if you learn to use Nujol whenever you feel the need of it. Nujol is so safe that babies, old people, and sick people can take it too. Ask your doctor about it. He'll tell you it can't hurt you. It's not habit-forming, contains no drugs or medicine. Perfected by the Chemical Products Division of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Nujol contains no drugs or medicine. It is different from anything else. Absolutely pure and safe to take under any conditions.

You can get Nujol at any drugstore. The genuine product comes in the famous Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle. Don't delay—get a bottle at once.

Rain cannot dampen the pull of Tribune Want Ads!

NOTHING dampens the ardor of prospective buyers like rain. In the business world a wet day is accepted with resignation as a poor selling day. But it remained for Mrs. Mary B. Eldredge of 1005 Harvard Street, Evanston, to prove that even adverse weather could not detract from the sales force of Tribune Want Ads.

Mrs. Eldredge planned to sell her furniture and, realizing that The Tribune Want Ad Section offered her the most economical and satisfactory way of disposing of it, she called the Adtaker and placed an ad to run in Sunday's issue.

The morning her ad appeared broke depressingly, and Mrs. Eldredge was discouraged. She could not imagine any one braving the cold, steady rain. But before 10 o'clock her first prospect called and purchased practically all her furniture, and within the next few days the steady stream of customers who came in answer to her ad had completely bought her out.

Perhaps like Mrs. Eldredge you, too, have some old furniture you wish to get rid of. Follow her example and advertise in the medium that produces results regardless of outside circumstances! Call—

DOOR BOLTED TO NAVY PACT WITH U. S., CECIL SAYS

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune From Service.)

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The inner history of the Geneva naval limitation conference was disclosed tonight by Viscount Cecil in the house of lords. In a statement regarding reasons for the resignation from the cabinet, Viscount Cecil attacked the British government's attitude on disarmament and placed the responsibility for the wrecking of the conference on Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer. Viscount Cecil disclosed that, although the British representatives in London had received express telegraphic authority from the cabinet to agree to the American contention on the question of parity in cruisers as well as battleships, Mr. Churchill became alarmed and pressed on his colleagues the necessity of avoiding what he regarded a dangerous concession. Viscount Cecil said Britain's refusal of parity with the United States "broke the door" against any agreement with America on naval disarmament.

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The bulk of the estate of the late James Cox Brady, estimated at more than $20,000,000, is bequeathed to the widow and the five children under the terms of the will, filed today with the surrogate in Albany. There are specific bequests to friends and Catholic charitable institutions.

Mr. Brady died last Thursday. He inherited from his father, the late Anthony M. Brady, one-sixth of his estate, estimated at about $10,000,000. Mr. Brady's office here would make no estimate of the amount of the sum disposed of in the will. The office made public a summary of the will.

The shares of all are to be held in trust. Mrs. Brady receiving one-quarter of the estate and the balance being divided equally among the children.

did not object to accepting the American contention, Viscount Cecil asserted. The American attitude on the question of mounting eight inch guns on any cruiser seemed to me entirely wrong, but it was maddest to allow the negotiations to break down on such a point," Viscount Cecil said, adding that it was with amazement that he heard the majority of his colleagues had decided to insist on six inch guns, even if it meant a breakdown. That decided him to ask the government to send some one else to Geneva.

in his place, but he returned to Geneva with Mr. Bridgeman on the understanding that if the negotiations failed he would reserve full liberty to resign. Viscount Cecil complained that he was repeatedly put in the position of having to defend in league committee propositions which seemed indefensible to him.

Paras Cruiser Program.
Great Britain has decided, in view of revelations made at the Geneva naval limitations conference, that it is not necessary to proceed with the full program of cruiser construction in the coming fiscal year. Therefore, instead of laying down three cruisers, it will only lay down one, which will be begun at Devonport in March. The other two will be laid in abeyance.

The statement that only one cruiser will be laid down was made by W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, in the house of commons today. It is hoped in government circles that it is hoped in government circles that the preparation of a general conference on reduction in world armaments.

GASOLINE FLOODS GOOSE ISLAND AS BIG TANK BURSTS

Goose Island was endangered yesterday when a gasoline tank belonging to the Keystone Oil and Manufacturing company burst in the company's yard at 1622 West Division street. More than thirty thousand gallons of gasoline flooded a city block.

A fire boat, four companies of fire apparatus, 35 firemen, and 25 policemen stood guard to prevent what it was feared would have been a catastrophe if the gasoline became ignited. The gasoline stood a foot deep in some spots and had flowed across the railroad tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul railroad nearby.

Eight tanks, each with a capacity of 30,000 gallons, are on the premises, and 15 tanks of oil and gasoline, each containing 10,000 gallons, were on the railroad tracks, enough, according to Division Marshall Heaney, to have rocked Chicago if a fire had started.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the West Chicago avenue station posted policemen all around the danger zone, and trains were stopped, while owners of factories nearby were ordered to extinguish their furnace fires. House fires were also put out, and smoking was prohibited.

Trenches were dug for draining, and firemen scooped the gasoline up in pails and mops and drew it into other tanks with pumps, while sand was piled onto the flooded area. The miniature lake of gasoline slowly disappeared. It was late afternoon before police and firemen went back to their stations, danger over.

In the French Provinces of long ago the art of gracious living was exemplified. And there, as in the country districts of New England, humble craftsmen fashioned furniture based on the general lines of that made by the great designers, but of a naive simplicity born of their manner of living.

Today these quaint pieces often have greater value for our homes than the more ornate designs, because they are right in scale and free from those artificialities against which Americans of today revolt. The designs of the Danesek French Provincial group are based on genuine old pieces, and are in complete accord with the spirit of feminine charm associated with this period. MIDWEST MOORS BIG SEAWAY PLAN AT CANADA DOCK

Ex-Gov. Harding, Bruce
Say It's Up to Ottawa.

BY GEORGE SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 16.—Denouncing unnamed eastern interests opposing the development of the St. Lawrence river for ocean navigation purposes, the Great Lakes Harbor association opened their first convention on Canadian soil here today with 300 delegates. President William Bruce of Milwaukee, who was endorsed for reelection, said the seaway was now distinctly up to Canada. The United States, he said, was definitely for it. "Selfish sectional interests, confined to small areas in the east, are obstructing the project," Mr. Bruce continued. "Americans are agreed that the question is now an international one. The answer lies with Canada. New York City is seeking to deprive the midwest of its God given right of access to the Atlantic ocean and the further right to convert its lake harbors into ocean ports."

Speech by Harding.
Former Gov. W. L. Harding of Iowa said it was inconceivable to him that Canada would spend $115,000,000 on a new thirty foot Welland canal, if the dominion did not intend to do the other and more important half of the job of opening up the lakes. "If we can get into our head that neither government need forfeit a single right, title, or privilege to develop jointly this scheme, then we all can approach the solution with fair assurance of success."

Need of Joint Action.
"We of the interior are unable to understand why there should be raised a question of advantage between Canada and our nation. The new development is only a matter of continuing a policy that is as old as both nations—that of joint and free use of the St. Lawrence for navigation. Such problems as lake level, the quantity of water to flow down the river and other considerations must be solved jointly regardless of whether the river is developed or not."

"We ask no rights we do not already have. We want no new concessions. Power is comparatively unimportant to us. What we want is transportation relief. We want if under terms which would leave our two nations occupying the same relative positions as to control and possession that they now occupy."

Lumbermen Tell How They Are Reforesting the Nation

BY HARPER LEECH.

"To make our forests safe from democracy" was defined as the goal of efforts at fire protection for the timber reserves of America by John W. Blodgett, Grand Rapids lumber man, who opened the discussion of fire losses in forests at the commercial forestry conference yesterday at the Congress hotel.

The meeting, called by the United States chamber of commerce, mustered 150 delegates, of whom probably 125 making their living out of trees and are trying to grow more trees. They represented some 15,000,000 more acres on which regrowth of timber and fire protection are being carried out for commercial purposes.

Agree on Tourist Peril.
Other speakers agreed with Mr. Blodgett as to the increased fire peril from the outdoor recreation which has become so general among Americans. Forester H. Colby from the Maine woods said that in his country the old timers say: "We used to make timber with teams and oxen—they move it now with cigars and knee pants." Paying high tribute to the persistency and speed of the razorback hog, F. H. Farwell of Orange, Tex., declared that in the south this animal is a rival of the hunter, fisherman, and plowman in deforestation work. The razorback leaves no seedling tree on his trail. Stock laws as well as more equitable taxation are required for southern reforestation, the Texan said.

Griggs of that corporation that the "time is past when forestry has to be sold to forest owners as a desirable thing, for they now believe this, but the time has come to sell it to the public that governs conditions which make it possible."

R. B. Goodman of Marinette, Wis., predicted that within 30 years the hardwood resources of northern Wisconsin and Michigan will begin to increase as the result of commercial forestry, encouraged by more intelligent tax laws and public policy generally. Until very recently, he said, the profit from lumber enterprises came from the increase in value of the timber, rather than from the industrial profits in its conversion, but the exhaustion theory of enhancement of value is now out of date.

Calls Industry Unprofitable.
According to Goodman, the higher price of lumber has increased sales resistance and made possible the introduction of substitutes in many uses at the same time that increasing taxes and interest charges on standing timber, no longer materially increasing in value, stimulated the production of lumber. The lumber industry right now is operating unprofitably on the whole while it is consuming or destroying the nation's greatest natural resources, he declared. Partial public realization of these conditions in the last five years, said Mr. Goodman, has led to new taxation and fire protection policies which have given private enterprise the necessary inducement to perpetuate our forest resources. Wisconsin and Minnesota have qualified in that respect, he said.

Movies Show Reforestation.

Movies and slides illustrating the profitable reforestation work of the St. Paul and Tacoma Lumber company lent force to the declaration of Maj. E. C. Griggs of that corporation that the "time is past when forestry has to be sold to forest owners as a desirable thing, for they now believe this, but the time has come to sell it to the public that governs conditions which make it possible."

R. B. Goodman of Marinette, Wis., predicted that within 30 years the hardwood resources of northern Wisconsin and Michigan will begin to increase as the result of commercial forestry, encouraged by more intelligent tax laws and public policy generally. Until very recently, he said, the profit from lumber enterprises came from the increase in value of the timber, rather than from the industrial profits in its conversion, but the exhaustion theory of enhancement of value is now out of date.

Calls Industry Unprofitable.

According to Goodman, the higher price of lumber has increased sales resistance and made possible the introduction of substitutes in many uses at the same time that increasing taxes and interest charges on standing timber, no longer materially increasing in value, stimulated the production of lumber. The lumber industry right now is operating unprofitably on the whole while it is consuming or destroying the nation's greatest natural resources, he declared. Partial public realization of these conditions in the last five years, said Mr. Goodman, has led to new taxation and fire protection policies which have given private enterprise the necessary inducement to perpetuate our forest resources. Wisconsin and Minnesota have qualified in that respect, he said.

Buys Cabinet for 75 Cents;
Finds 21-2 Quarts of Scotch.

Islemping, Mich., Nov. 16.—[U. P.]—Miss Mabel Hawes, attending a rummage sale given by the Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church, today paid 75 cents for an old fashioned cabinet with a mirror attached. She found two quarts and a pint of 30 year old Haig & Haig whisky in a locked drawer. The cabinet was a part of the house furnishings of the late Congressman Young of Islemping and had not been opened for years.

MOTOR CONGRESS OF WORLD WARS ON BILLBOARDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, Nov. 16.—Billboard advertising in rural districts was attacked today by Col. Wilfred Bailey, British minister of transport, at the closing session of the world motor transport congress.

"It is unnecessary that because you make and maintain a good road it should be ugly or disgraced by hideous advertisements," declared Col. Bailey. "Newspapers are the proper places for these advertisements. Billboards erected along beautiful country roads advertising somebody's pills are a crime, especially as one sees these hideous things while entering beautiful villages."

Next year's congress will be held in Rome in September. The urgent invitation of the Italian delegate, Senator Crespi, was backed by President Mussolini, who wired assurances of a hearty welcome.

The Hardinge Burns Any Oil That Flows

Lower grades of oil contain more heat units. "High-grade fuel may be 25% higher in price than the low-grade product and in such cases the saving in cost of fuel by burning low-grade oil might be as high as 30%."

Quoted from U. S. Dept. of Agt. investigation of domestic oil business.

The Chicago & North Western has standardized on Hyatt Roller Bearing journal boxes for 120 coaches. This is the largest anti-friction journal order ever placed for suburban train service.

Suburban trains are now rolling on bearings that furnish a revelation in passenger comfort

COMMUTERS are experiencing the smoothest railroad travel ever known. Trains start gently, without a jerk. Suburban stops, despite their frequency, go by unnoticed. Top speed is pleasantly restful. Down in the trucks of the cars, in the journal boxes, are the easy turning, shock cushioning Hyatt Quiet Roller Bearings that make this velvet-like performance possible.

Acceleration is faster, and quieter. The grabbing and jerking caused by plain bearing friction is absent. Power is saved. Longer trains can be hauled. "On time" Schedules are made possible.

These and other Hyatt contributions are resulting in new measures of operating efficiency that are welcome to both public and railroad executives. On the Chicago and North Western Railway alone, 120 new Hyatt equipped coaches are being put into service for the benefit of commuters. A number of other roads too have begun the operation of Hyatt equipped cars in suburban service with evident satisfaction to all.

In addition to suburban service, crack "Limited" trains are also proving the worth of these fine bearings. Today, over fifty roads have a large number of cars equipped with Hyatt Quiet Bearings. Hyatt is proud of its contribution in bringing about this greater comfort to train passengers and urges the public as a whole to notice the difference when riding in Hyatt equipped cars.

WIDE BLOW PRIMARY LAW HOLDS UP APPEAL

Small May Call Special Session in January.

BY PARKE BROWN.

When moves of attorneys attacking the primary laws have prevented the filing of appeals from the lower courts in time for consideration by the supreme court during its December session was the last day on which an appeal might have been filed in Cook county, but both in Cook county and in Lee county, where local interests have been sought to nullify the primary statutes, decisions of the circuit court were delayed by the pending appeals.

As a result of the delay until the term of the supreme court is to start pressure on Gov. Len Small to call on extraordinary session of the legislature for the passage of new primary law without waiting for a decision by the high court.

When Turnout Threatens. Sources close to the governor have learned that his first inclination was to favor a return to the fall session instead of seeking to continue the primary law system if the supreme court knocked out the present law. But arguments have been made that such a change would be undesirable because it would raise the question of delegates to the state conventions in June and July. The state had no spring primary. It was held, its district delegates had to be named by congressional district conventions and its delegates at large by a state convention. It would require the advance holding of county conventions throughout the state. Because of the contents in these conventions, the argument is made that a new law would be created.

May Call January Session. Some and other arguments are said to have been made with Gov. Small to the effect that it is said he may be willing to call a special session early in January, having his session on no other business than the decision of Judge M. Fisher last Thursday in which he declared both the general primary law and the legislative primary law unconstitutional.

When Attorney Henry A. Berger, a legal adviser of the Democratic administration but appearing in this case against the primary law, a tax collector from carrying out the two primary laws, appeared with a supplemental petition before Judge Fisher. This additional motion asked that the primary law be declared unconstitutional and that the Secretary of State Emerson be ordered to call a special session of the legislature on January 10, 1928, to consider the primary law. Berger's motion was based on the fact that the primary law was unconstitutional and that the Secretary of State Emerson had not been ordered to call a special session of the legislature on January 10, 1928, to consider the primary law. Berger's motion was based on the fact that the primary law was unconstitutional and that the Secretary of State Emerson had not been ordered to call a special session of the legislature on January 10, 1928, to consider the primary law.

Would Public Speakers Rather Talk to Women than to Men?

ARE women better listeners than men? Here are a few opinions taken from the hundreds of letters sent us by Presidents of women's clubs commenting on our first advertisement on modern women:

"If you want to realize which are the most serious-minded—men or women—attend a woman's convention and a man's convention.... 'I attended a gathering last winter. One man chewed gum all the time he spoke; another professor had a paper, and never looked up a single time.'.... 'A public speaker, before the average group of business men, usually injects sufficient of the well-known fraternal platitudinous matter to appeal, as he believes, to all his audience. As a frequent guest of women's clubs, I can say that this is no longer true of the men who are engaged to speak before club-women.'"

These remarks probably fail to do men justice. Yet they are very important as reflecting the new attitude of American women. Such letters could hardly have been written even twenty-five years ago!

American women of to-day know that every great event in the world sooner or later affects the home. They know also that new books and plays may have a profound influence on their children; that sports mean a new generation of healthy bodies and minds; that new discoveries may revolutionize housework; and that, as the chief buyers for the home, it is their task to advise on every kind of purchase, from clothes to a radio, from a furnace to a refrigerator.

The eager curiosity of the American woman surmounts every obstacle. She must and will get her knowledge first-hand. This, above all, accounts for the rapt attention public speakers undoubtedly receive from gatherings of women. It is also why—

Just as Many Women as Men Read The Digest Every Week

The women of America form the most responsive reading public the world has ever known. And in this public, the millions who read The Digest have proved their responsiveness. The Digest has never been edited directly for women. Some people call it a man's paper. It has no "woman's department"; no fiction; but it holds the attention of women through the great adventures it unrolls from week to week in its world-news and by the contact it gives them with every phase of modern life, bringing zest and unflagging interest to the tasks of the day!

70 BROADCASTING STATIONS HIT BY FEDERAL ORDER

Martyrs to Better Radio During Winter.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—(Special.)—Changes in wave lengths of a number of middle western broadcasting stations are included in a list of seventy stations affected by an order issued today by the Federal Radio Commission. WGN and WLS are among those affected. The changes are to take place on Dec. 1.

Stations involved have been occupying positions on the dial between 600 and 1,000 kilocycles which is the band recently designated to be cleared of interference. Twenty-five channels are cleared under today's order in this "non-heterodyning" band.

"Stations adversely affected in some instances must be martyrs to the cause of better radio," says the commission.

Public Hearings for Complaints. "If the commission has erred in its difficult task of deciding relative merits of the broadcasters' recourse may be had in the form of public hearings for any station believing it has the facts to substantiate its claim for more favorable consideration."

"But fortified with conclusive proof that reception of many instances is being more or less completely ruined by interference, and with the fact that listeners, during the winter months at least, desire to select stations as well as local stations, the commission, believing the listeners' interests paramount, will pursue a definite and unrelenting policy of correcting the broadcasting situation toward that end."

"Within a few days there will be an additional list of changes designed to improve reception outside of the 600-1,000 kilocycle band."

Middle West Changes.

Stations involved in middle western changes include the following:

WGN—Chicago, transferred from 880 kilocycles, 15,000 watts, to 730 kilocycles, 15,000 watts.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Dressed for the Part

(Thursday, Nov. 17.)

Act of "Pagliacci" in Store for W-G-N Fans

A PORTION of Leoncavallo's great opera, "I Pagliacci," as presented by the Chicago Civic Opera company at the Auditorium theater, will be brought to radio listeners tonight by a nationwide chain of stations that will include W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel.

The complete second act will be broadcast between 9 and 10 o'clock. This marks the third great opera broadcast supplied to radio listeners in the last three weeks.

In addition to the marvelous orchestral music, a group of brilliant stars will be heard singing the famous roles of Canio, Nedda, Beppe, and Tonio. John Sampe takes the part of Canio; Olga Karas will be heard as Nedda; Joe Moica plays Beppe, and Robert Ringling is making his Chicago debut as Tonio.

Henry G. Weber will wield the conductor's baton during the broadcast. Following the starting of the second act there will be a short explanatory announcement of the story to be told.

Twenty minutes of harmony singing by these popular favorites, Correll and Golden, is another big highlight of the evening. The famous phonograph artists come on the air at 10:40 o'clock, announcing their coming, as always, with "Indian Love Call."

Immediately they will sweep into a group of their most popular songs, including some brand new ones as well as many old popular favorites. Their appearance follows that of the Music Box, which will again feature a quintet of libelous tunes.

Between 8 and 9 o'clock, to the accompaniment of their famous "march," in which is heard the barking of their dogs and the jingling of the bells on their sleds, come the Eskimos, led by Chief Eskimo Harry Reed. This is the popular jazz band which makes a specialty of the latest red hot dance of libelous tunes.

RADIO PROGRAMS FOR TODAY

times. In addition to groups of such selections there will be banjo solos by Mr. Reiser, and other interesting novelties.

Mac Satterly marshals his minstrels for another half hour's program from W-G-N today between 3 and 5 o'clock. Topping the bill will be "Uke Law," the popular song and ukulele man, singing, "You and I," "Before I Love You," and "She Always Says Good Evening to Me." Uke Law will be assisted in his part of the program by Vera Williams, whose songs by Melba Caldwell, harmony singing by Miss Caldwell and Elmer Haynes, and songs by Mac himself will round out this half hour.

"Focus of Importance About Furniture Wood" is the title of the talk prepared by Walter Murray, decorative adviser to O. W. Richardson & Co., which will be heard during this morning's Home Management period, 10 to 10:30 o'clock. W-G-N's household expert will talk on "Holiday Goods."

PLANE CARRIER COMMISSIONED

REVEAL SECRETS

Defense Against Air Attack Automatic.

Nov. 16.—[Special.]—

The government's most closely guarded naval secret was revealed today with the formal placing in commission of a giant airplane carrier, the USS Saratoga, at the American shipyard at Groton, Conn.

The United States navy took over a ship not only ranking first in size but also in cost, at $46,000,000.

The remarkable "mechanical mathematician," which is a ship, protects the craft from attack by enemy planes.

Admiral Julian Latimer, commander of the Philadelphia navy yard, presided at the ceremony.

Harry E. Yarnell, who will command the ship, was also present.

To Be Pacific Flagship.

The proud post of flagship of the Pacific fleet will be taken by the Saratoga within a few months.

U. S. to Study Reductions in Tariff to Appease French

PARIS, Nov. 16.—[U.P.]—Minister of Commerce Maurice Bokanowski said today that the United States had agreed, after the conclusion of a provisional tariff agreement, to study the possibility of a reduction of American tariff rates based on a comparison of American and French costs of production.

Under the provisional tariff agreement, M. Bokanowski said, France has agreed to grant American imports rates which were in existence prior to Sept. 6, when new rates which the United States called discriminatory went into effect simultaneously with the signing of a Franco-German favored-nation treaty.

The minister of commerce praised the conciliatory spirit of both France and the United States which permitted the provisional agreement.

Opposed to French System.

Whereas the American method of a common tariff without favor to any nation is diametrically opposed to the tariff favoring by offering reciprocal most-favored-nation treatment," he said, "it was by each putting aside the question of respective rights to dispose of the tariff as each nation desired, that we are able to arrive at a practical result.

"As a matter of fact, it was a point of right which caused America to test the application of a common tariff schedule in September. In reality, only 2 1/2 per cent of America's imports to France were affected.

"Henceforth, in the absence of a commercial treaty, France has granted the United States many tariff favors including reduction in many cases of 50 per cent from the normal schedule.

But despite concessions, France saw her export trade to the United States subjected to a series of severe restrictive measures; first, elevation of the rate on products principally interesting France, such as silk, furs, and other luxuries; second, monetary restrictions affecting French agricultural products; third, American investigations obliging French business houses to open their books to American treasury agents.

Balance in U. S. Favor.

"Soon the balance of Franco-American trade swung in favor of the United States, which had doubled its pre-war figures while France painfully maintained its pre-war total."

RIGHTS TODAY FOR WM. A. JACKSON, PHONE PIONEER

Funeral services for William A. Jackson, a pioneer in the promotion of the telephone, who died in New York on Monday, will be held at 2:30 p. m. today in Rosehill cemetery.

Mr. Jackson was 73 years old.

As an employee of the Western Union Telegraph company in Detroit, Mr. Jackson early became interested in the invention and development of the telephone.

In company with John Newberry he obtained in 1877 the license for Michigan from Alexander Graham Bell and founded the Michigan Telephone company.

He was president from 1895 to 1901 of the Central Union Telephone company, which served Indiana, Ohio, and Illinois, and was a director of the Chicago, Wisconsin, Missouri, and Iowa Telephone companies.

Mr. Jackson is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nellie Moore Jackson, and a daughter, Mrs. Louise Robinson, wife of H. H. Robinson.

WATCHMAN DIES IN PLANT FIRE.

Rever Falls, Pa., Nov. 16.—(P)—The night watchman met death today in a $100,000 fire that swept the plant of the Beaver Falls Art Company.

Charles Hespeler, the watchman, attempted to prevent the flames from reaching an adjoining building by closing a door in a tunnel and was overcome by fire.

NOVELTY Boilers are always dependable, when most needed

WINTER always tries to force its way into your home, to make your family uncomfortable, and it is likely to succeed in doing so, if your heating system isn't always on the job. The boiler is the heart of the heating system. Unless your boiler is efficient, and dependable at all times, the winter will make your family very uncomfortable.

Just like your heart supplies blood to all parts of your body, so does the Boiler supply hot water or steam to all parts of the house (through the pipes and radiators). The Boiler is responsible for your heat comfort and health, not the pipes or radiators. Insist upon a NOVELTY Boiler to insure your heat comfort and health in the winter time.

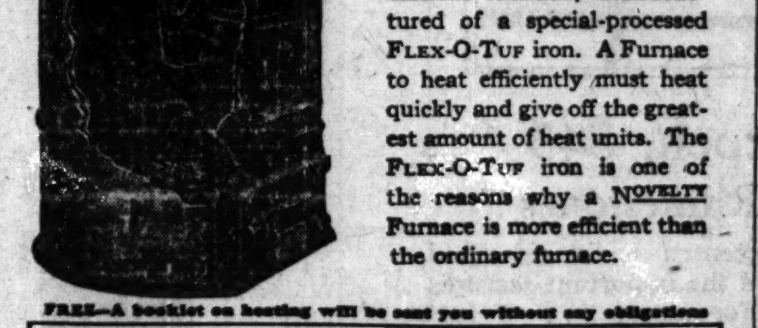

PROOF OF Efficient and Economical Heating

In our 80 years of manufacturing, we have produced over 2,500,000 heating units, that have been and are comforting about 20,000,000 people.

NOVELTY Boilers are installed by any good heating dealer. Ask for a NOVELTY Boiler by name.

DRINK WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

BLONDES—heed this warning!

BLONDE HAIR quickly fades and fades—unless given special care. That's why the most popular blonde now is the blonde who uses the new special shampoo for light hair only. SCHURZ, TILDEN MEET SATURDAY FOR PREP TITLE

North Siders Undefeated in League Play.

JAMES EVANS.

The Schurz High school football team meets Tilden Tech Saturday afternoon at Mills stadium and the title of the City Prep league will go to the winner. Schurz has not been defeated this season in league play and its goal line is uncrossed. Tilden Tech, although defeated by Lindblom, last year's champion, represents the section which has produced the title team for the last three years.

Tilden Defense Faces Test.—Tilden won its section title on points, because its defense was better than that of Lindblom, but that defense will be tested to the limit to stop the attack of Schurz and the Tilden secondary defense will be up against the best aerial attack in the league. With Capt. Evans of Schurz, who is one of the best defensive tackles in the league, leading the way, the Schurz forwards expect to halt the Tilden running attack. Both elevens have good place kickers, and, although the punting is about equal, it is an uncertain quantity for both teams.

Schurz's forward passing plays give the team an advantage over Tilden. Playing Marshall in the semifinals, which then was undefeated in league competition, Schurz scored its two touchdowns by this means.

Marshall Highest Scorer.—The season set several scoring records. Marshall scored the most points, 184, while Roosevelt, also a west section team, had 194 points scored against it in four games. Hyde Park scored the most valuable eight points in the season's play. These points, all that Hyde Park scored, were sufficient to defeat Lindblom and give Tilden the central section title. Hyde Park also scored the least points in the league.

Bowen, like Roosevelt, failed to win a game, while Lake View escaped from this class for the first time in several years. Phillips, by playing two boys over age and forfeiting the games, provided the league with the dual protest which was lost in the shuffle occasioned by the one point margin of selection by which Tilden represented the central section.

The final standing of the four sections follows:

	NORTH	WEST	CENTRAL	SOUTH

SMITTY—FIVE HUNDRED REASONS WHY HE DON'T GET IT

Dempsey and Kearns Draw in Hoppe Gains First Round of Legal Bout 65 Point Lead Over Reisel

ions of Mr. Tim Mara, the prominent bookmaker, against Mr. Tunney. "I am trying to find out which judge is the biggest," Mr. Gibson said. Mr. Mike Jacobs, house ticket scalper for The Tex Rickard Greater (Lift) Enterprises, Inc., stood on a chair in the corridor and estimated the attendance in the court room as 150. He said that without wishing to criticize the honorable court, he could have arranged the seating facilities so as to accommodate twice that many.

Fidiana Well Represented.—"I guess this is their first big show," Mr. Jacobs remarked. "A man always makes mistakes until he learns by experience. I am afraid, however, that the card is a flop, because I have been listening all day and I haven't heard any cheers."

Looking down from the bench, Judge Runyon scanned a delegation fairly representative of the lobbies of the new Garden on fight night. Garbled noses and cauliflower ears were much favored with here and there the dull greenish glint of a brass incisor, the insignia of the prize fight manager, Mr. Mickey Walker, who has been endeavoring to support Mr. Kearns in the style to which he became accustomed as Dempsey's manager, had a seat near the front. Mr. Teddy Hayes, who claims to have been a sort of social adjuster for Mr. Dempsey some years ago, sat with Mr. Walker. It was, on the whole, a truly representative assemblage of the manhood, chivalry, and sportsmanship of the roped arena.

Mr. Art Sager, counsel for Mr. Kearns, began the trial with a note of pathos, recalling the fond, brave days when Mr. Kearns and Mr. Dempsey were just a pair of ambitious, adventurous boys with bright ideals and a laudable desire to make their way together to the top of an honorable profession, pugilism. He had scarcely begun, however, when Mr. Arthur F. Driscoll of Mr. Dempsey's counsel, objected. It appeared that Mr. Driscoll thought the jury might be prejudiced against Mr. Dempsey if it were brought out that he used to be friendly with Mr. Kearns. Judge Runyon upheld Mr. Sager, however, on the ground that the prejudice, if any, would operate both ways.

Contract Termed Ruse.—Then Mr. Sager represented that on Sept. 14, 1923, Dempsey signed a contract whereby Kearns was to have one-third of his earnings for the next three years, but it was later set forth on Dempsey's behalf that this contract was merely intended as a ruse to deceive the New York prize fight commission, as Kearns really was receiving 50 per cent of Dempsey's earnings and the pair of them wished to show apparent compliance of a commission rule forbidding any porch climber, or manager, to exact more than $21.3 per cent of the earnings of any bum. "No good," Mr. Dempsey's counsel undertook to show and the only genuine business relationship between Dempsey and Kearns was a $50-50 agreement, terminable at Dempsey's pleasure. It will be contended that Dempsey did terminate this understanding in 1925, with a brusque telegram advising Kearns that he didn't want him any more and would consider it a pleasure to see nothing of him thenceforth. Irrespective of the outcome of the suit it would seem that the machinations of Mr. Kearns either have been overrated or are being modulated for reasons deemed good by his counsel. Thus far Mr. Kearns has not touched upon anything that would tend to nominate anybody to membership in the select colonies of Atlanta or Osmington. In a short, informal audience just after the hearing, Mr. Kearns, far from threatening to incriminate anyone, assumed a wronged, plaintive manner and asked why the hell Dempsey didn't pay his $233,333.33 after all he had done for him.

this block also scored better than a point an inning, making 27 billiards in 25 turns at the table, despite missing a dozen shots by a hair. The block was unusual in that neither played a single safety.

Hoppe also scored rapidly in the evening but hit one dull spell in the middle of the match where he counted only three shots in eleven innings.

He had a high run of eight, two 6s and two 5s. Meanwhile Reisel was staying right with him and counted 46 points in 35 innings, which was even better than it seems, for Reisel for the most part was shooting at difficult "leaves." Twice he had off cushion shots left for him two and three times in succession. The champion had three runs of five in the night block.

Prices!

Michelin's great resources, modern methods, and large sales make these tubes cost you less than other first grade tubes—a rare combination of highest quality and low price. Investigate.

MICHELIN Tubes undoubtedly outlast all others. The composite tubes, illustrated at the right above, were made by cementing together sections of Michelin Tubes and of other makes. They were then run to destruction. The Michelin sections remained intact after all the other sections were worn out. It pays to standardize on Michelin Tubes.

ward, the natural rival of California, was last to engage an expert and Glen Warner, who played at Cornell and afterward
at his alma mater, Carlele
Pittsburgh, was engaged. Warner turned out championship eleven the Palo Alto institution and his year is tied with Southern for the title.

Then Southern California realized it must have thorough coaching to compete with other members of the conference and Howard Jones, who learned at Yale and afterward at Syracuse and Iowa, was signed to a contract. Howard, who will meet Notre Dame here Nov. 26.

Both follow West Lead.

The south now is following the example of the west. More of the better known coaches are going into the south. Strength of these teams is indicated by the results of an intercollegiate played this week.

Early in the year Georgia, one of the strongest contenders for the southern title, defeated Yale, 14 to 10. Bruce McClure, the great back of the Blue team, was a member of that team. Old Bill, with its running back, could do nothing against Georgia's ends, two of the finest in the country. Nash and Shiver would be valuable assets to any football team. Yale's defeat by Georgia is the only blot on the Yale record, which includes victories over the Army, Dartmouth, and Princeton. Crowley, the former Notre Dame back and one of the four horsemen, is one of the assistant coaches at Georgia and has had a lot to do with Georgia's splendid record.

Southern Methodist, coached by Ray Morison, who learned his football at Vanderbilt, trounced Missouri, 32 to 9.
Missouri is leading in the championship race in the Missouri Valley conference.

Texas Has Strong Team.

The Kansas Aggies took a trouncing from Texas, 41 to 7. The Lone Star State team is coached by Clyde Littlefield, who learned his football at Texas.

Texas Aggies, which lead the championship race in the southwest, have a great player in Joel Hunt, a quarter back who can do most anything with a football. He scales about 165 pounds but is 50 per cent of his team's attack.

Vanderbilt, coached by Dan Mc-Guigan, who was a member of Fleising Yost's point a minute teams at Michigan, has made excellent records.
This year, Vanderbilt was defeated by Texas, 13 to 6, but held Georgia Tech and Tennessee to tie scores.

Georgia Tech, another strong team of the south, was beaten by Notre Dame, 26 to 7, and Indiana won over Kentucky, 21 to 0, but the fact remains, the game is advancing very rapidly in the south and is now on a par with the game played in any other section of the country.

Indiana football practice today for the traditional battle with Purdue in Memorial stadium Saturday was held under difficulties. The tackling of the varsity against the freshmen was particularly poor, the yearling backs time and again slipped off tackle and cutting back for long gains. Coach Pat Page and his assistants paid particular attention to tackling and blocking of Magnabasco and Stephenson. The two full backs have been kept from the regular lineup because of poor exhibitions in this department of the game.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 16.—(Special.)—The effective and vicious manner in which the freshmen back field men slid off Purdue's tackles in scrimmage last night led Coach Phelan to send his men through another extended defensive drill this afternoon, with the yearlings again using Indiana plays.

Eickman and Galletch, tackles, and Prentice and Hook, guards, underwent some intensive drilling by Line Coach Kiser in perfecting a defense against the smashes of Bennett and Harrell, Crimson back field men.

The defensive scrimmage extended to both the second and the third string eleven, and at its conclusion the regulars took the offensive and cut loose with a number of new plays, including several trick formations which have been designed for use Saturday.

One formation in particular worked to perfection, twice accounting for touchdowns after long runs.

Discharged from the infirmary just before practice, the trio took part for a short time in the signal drill that dominated the light practice. Webster was in at guard for only a minute, while Hoben directed the play for five minutes and Garvey worked out at half for ten. Coaches announced all three will start against Harvard.

Crosby went to the infirmary today when the infection that developed Monday grew worse and affected his general condition. There is little chance of his playing against Yale.

FLATTERY WINS LEXINGTON RACE IN RAIN AND MUD

Willie Garner Boots Two Favorites Home.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Former Senator Camden's sprinter Flattery won the muddy track here today by jockey Willie Garner, was the winner by half a length from Changing Moods in the race on the program.

It was raining for a greater part of the day and the track was deep in sloppy mud. This reduced the field in the feature race to four starters, Flattery proving better than Lexington to take third money.

Manetta had been the early leader, but quit at the turn of the Futurity course, from which point Flattery and Changing Moods fought it out. Flattery was the 2 to 5 favorite.

Another odds on choice, Golden Rocket, at $2.50 in the muds, was the victor in the second best race, which engaged 2 year olds. He was also ridden by Garner and was a length in front of Bonanza at the finish, with Flattery, which carried the sills of A.M. Coughlin of Chicago, third.

My Sullivan to Box Freeman at Coliseum

My Sullivan, St. Paul welterweight, and Tommy Freeman of Cleveland have been signed to meet in the semi-windup to the Mickey Walker-Paul Berlenbach fight at the Coliseum on Nov. 25. They will box ten rounds to a decision at 145 pounds.

Freeman is the fighter who ruined the championship aspiration of Buffalo Callahan of East Chicago, Ind., two years ago. After Callahan had been toppling over his opponents in one and two rounds, Tommy put an end to Callahan's winning streak by stopping him in eleven rounds at Cleveland. In addition to this victory, Tommy has won from Sgt. Sammy Baker, Joe Simonich, Paul Doyle, Jimmy Jordan and many other leading fighters of his weight.

Sullivan's showing against the Cleveland veteran will determine whether My is a championship possibility or just a preliminary fighter. Both men will be here on Saturday to finish preparation.

Promoter James C. Mullen announced that both Walker and Berlenbach will settle down to the final lap of training at his gymnasium on Saturday.

Present Day Manufacturing Requires Buildings for Straight-Line Production

TODAY, more than ever before, manufacturing efficiency demands the economical movement of maximum quantities of material over the shortest distance with the fewest possible moves.

The economies effected by Austin design and construction of industrial plants for straight-line production make it well worth while for many companies to consider the advantages of new buildings suitably equipped for speeding-up production by the use of mechanical handling systems and modern machines.

Moving out of a congested district into less expensive property on the outskirts relieves overhead and provides ample room for expansion. Employees, also, are more contented. Such a location gives them an opportunity to own a home of their own within reasonable distance of their work.

Austin Engineers will be glad to discuss this matter with you and give you the benefit of this organization's half century of experience in building for the nation's industrial leaders. No obligation, of course.

PLAN 44 MILLION MERGER OF TWO BANKS IN LOOP

BY O. A. MATHER.

Another merger of Chicago downtown banks is in the offing. Negotiations are being conducted, with prospects of successful outcome, for a new combination of the Chicago Trust and National Bank of Commerce company and the National Bank of Commerce.

The combined resources of the two banks would aggregate nearly $44,000,000. The Chicago Trust company has deposits of $20,000,000, capital of $2,000,000, and surplus of $2,000,000. The National Bank of Commerce has deposits of $16,200,000, capital of $500,000, and surplus and undivided profits of $320,000. Stock of the Chicago Trust company is quoted in the market at 100, that of the National Bank of Commerce at $90. Both have risen sharply in the last few weeks. Lucius Teter is president of the Chicago Trust company and Edwin L. Wagner is president of the National Bank of Commerce.

Regard Baise as Fair.
Consumers of steel have accepted as timely and reasonable the recent advance of $1 a ton in plates, shapes, and bars, according to the midweek reviews. The fact that purchasers were given opportunity to cover immediate needs at the old prices caused a spurt in buying, although this was followed by a lull.
"In the lighter forms of steel business has remained quiet and prices are in some cases quotably lower," the Iron Age says. "Counting all forms of steel except rails, which are active, orders for the first half of November are about equal in tonnage to those of the first half of October. Little or no expansion of buying is expected until the first half of December, when needs for 1928 may be covered without affecting year-end inventories.

Three railroads have added over 70,000 tons to rail mill bookings. Railroad car builders have submitted figures for some 15,000 cars for consideration under 1928 budgets."

"Expanding order books of many steel producers continue to contrast sharply with the difficulties of maintaining a 65 per cent average operating rate," the Iron Trade says. "Another price advance may be promulgated next month, establishing the current increase for the first quarter."

Operations of the United States Steel corporation this week are placed between 70 and 71 per cent of capacity, being the first time they have touched the 70 per cent mark since the first week in September. Two weeks ago operations were around 68 per cent, while a year ago they were about 82 per cent. The present average for the entire industry is placed around 67 per cent, compared with 65 per cent two weeks ago and 79 per cent a year ago.

Chrysler Report Cheering. The automobile industry took cheer yesterday from the earnings report of the Chrysler corporation. Net earnings for the first nine months of this year were $16,221,886, equivalent to $5.50 a share on the common stock, compared with $11,719,812, or $3.85 a share, for the same period in 1926. President Walter P. Chrysler predicted a further increase in export sales, which now comprise about 15 per cent of the company's total business. He also expressed optimism over the future of the whole industry.

The General Motors corporation's consolidated balance sheet as of Sept. 30 last shows total assets of $1,074,207,755, against $914,893,266 on Sept. 30, 1926, and a profit and loss surplus of $206,808,664, against $102,149,375. Current assets were $418,624,360 and current liabilities were $135,341,668, against current assets of $276,086,297, current liabilities of $120,771,146 on Sept. 30, 1926."

Good Dividend News.

Dividend news was cheerful yesterday.

day. Directors of the American and Foreign Power company approved a plan for payment of back dividends on Series A second preferred stock by additional shares carrying warrants for the purchase of common stock. Accumulations amount to $26.25 a share, or $2,992,998, and liquidation would require issuance of 29,930 additional shares, each carrying a warrant to buy four shares of common stock at $25 a share.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET

Chicago stocks continued active yesterday with most of the issues closing higher. Midland Steel Products led the up side with a 4 point jump to 79. Middle West Utilities gained 2 points to 118 and advances of a point each were registered by Great Lakes Dredge, Marvel Carburetor and United Biscuit. The new United Biscuit selling on a "when issued" basis was traded in on the high of 31 and Marvel Carburator' announced earnings of $354,728 after all charges and taxes for the first 10 months of this year, equal to $7.32 a share on the 75,000 shares outstanding. The annual dividend basis is $2.30. The directors will meet today and the understanding is that a 20 cent extra payment will be declared, thereby explaining the rise yesterday.

Fractured optimism resulted for Au-turn Automobile, Chicago City and Connecting railway preferred, Wanner Gear and Borg & Beck. Yellow Cab headed the downside with a loss of $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$. Sears Roebuck was off a point and Kellogg Switchboard and Supply, Stewart-Warner and Montgomery Ward were down fractionally. Hupp Motors was inactive but closed unchanged. On small sales, Union Carbide advanced $\frac{1}{4}$ since the last previous sale and Hibbard, Spencer & Bartlett gained 4 points. Service near was up a point.

A new high for a Chicago stock exchange membership was reached yesterday when Jerry Cable of the firm of Wilcox Drake & Co., of Los Angeles, purchased the seat of Henry W. Leman for $12,500.

A black and white illustration of a man in a suit standing next to a large industrial machine, possibly a steam engine or boiler, with a smaller figure crouching nearby. The man is looking towards the machine. The machine has a large cylindrical body and a smaller section on top. There are some pipes and structural elements visible. The background is simple, with some vertical lines suggesting a wall or fence. The style is that of a woodcut or a high-contrast print.

you are risking a frozen car!

Protect your car today with the perfect anti-freeze

EVEREADY PRESTONE

(ETHYLENE GLYCOL)

For the preparation of anti-freeze solution under
U. S. Patent 1213363

A new discovery!
There is nothing else like it

AT LAST, science has discovered a new, better winter protection against frozen motors—Eveready Prestone. Eveready Prestone will protect your motor all winter—one supply of it! No replacements or replenishments. No worry about lost strength. No overheating. This is the perfect anti-freeze. Something entirely new. A distinct, different chemical compound—one that meets all the specifications of the U.S. Bureau of Standards for an ideal anti-freeze.

No glycerine

Eveready Prestone contains no glycerine. It will never become "gummy," never overheat a motor. It never leaves deposits. It flows as freely as water.

No alcohol

Eveready Prestone contains no alcohol. It will not boil off. There is no danger of a sudden freeze-up resulting from a weakened solution. Eveready Prestone is odorless and safe. It will not harm the cooling system or the finish of your car.

Most economical to use, although highest in first cost

The quality of the product makes the price of Eveready Prestone $5 a gallon. But Eveready Prestone is the most economical anti-freeze to buy because it never deteriorates or loses strength. You simply mix Eveready Prestone and water, depending on the temperature range for which protection is desired. One filling lasts you all winter. It is the safest kind of long-time investment in protection and security.

Eveready Prestone is a product for motorists who believe that an investment in a perfect anti-freeze is good economy. It will commend itself to owners and drivers who understand that such an investment is infinitely less expensive than cracked cylinder heads, burned-out bearings, blistered paint, rotted hose connections or the dozen other costly mishaps that may follow the use of a cheap preparation.

"The perfect anti-freeze" means exactly that. National Carbon Company, Inc., manufacturers of Eveready Flashlights and Eveready Radio Batteries, guarantee this product without qualification.

Eveready Prestone is not an untried product. It has been produced in limited quantities for several years. Fleet operators and car manufacturers, who were quick to appreciate the merits of this product, immediately absorbed the entire available supply, and it has their unqualified endorsement. Increased production now makes Eveready Prestone available to everyone.

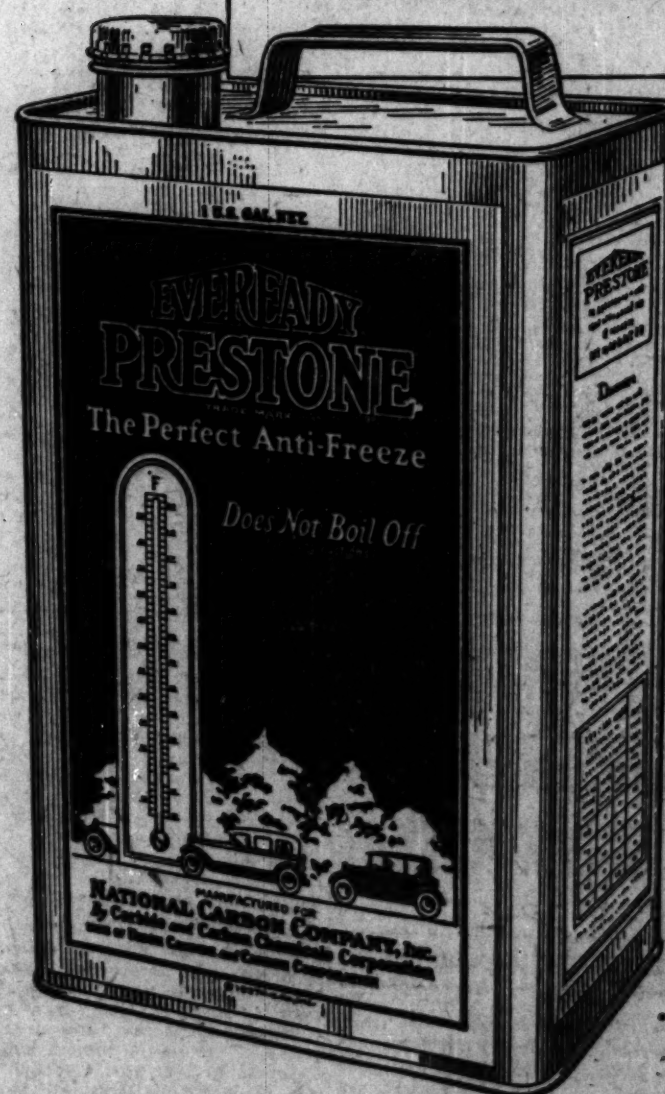

Get Eveready Prestone today

There is no longer any necessity for makeshift winter motor protection. Don't delay about this important duty. Settle the anti-freeze problem once and for all by starting right away with Eveready Prestone. Your garage, automotive supply or hardware dealer can take care of your requirements.

The Portrait Invisible

BY JOSEPH GOLLOMB

SYNOPSIS.
Bruce, owner of a New York gambling house, and two crooks, Slim and Dutch, a frequent visitor, known as the Goldfish. They accuse him of being a stool pigeon, because he is often in the courtroom of Judge Craig, who is severe with them, and dismisses them with an ultimatum—they are to be always at his disposal.

Following Monday Judge Craig does not appear for the opening of a famous case. Bruce, who is known as the Goldfish, a student of psychology with a strange power over men and tricks of mind reading, begins work on the case. He finds the murdered body of Robert Craig in a suburban cottage, the tenant of which is a young woman named Kate Randall.

He sends her back to the judge's office and volunteers to substitute for her. He himself Mary Allen, Galt, meeting her there, is suspicious and has her shadowed. She disappears. Bruce, realizing he loves her, starts to search for her and is accused in a photo accident.

The Goldfish finds Mary Allen and has her brought back to New York. He tells Judge Craig that he can save Mary from arrest by marrying her. The judge agrees to marry her.

INSTALLMENT XLVII. BETRAYED.

On the top of the highest dune their squat cottage with its irregular roof and mugging wings looked inviting, notwithstanding the darkness that enveloped it.

Bruce turned to her with a radiance on his face visible even by the light of the bulb over the speedometer.

"Aren't you a wonder to discover this?"

She laughed a little shakily. "No, the discovery is Mr. Galt's contribution. Mine, such as it is, is on the inside."

The slight breeze muttered intermittently; and from far off sounded some mellow query of another. Otherwise there was only the peace of a night, asleep.

With arms entwined, the Craigs drank it in. Then touching her cheek he whispered:

"Promise you won't look till I call you."

"If you don't keep me waiting too long—I'm only human, you know!"

"O, I'm so afraid of an anticlimax!"

He took her face between his hands and kissed her.

"That for your fears?"

She kissed him back; then, freeing herself, went to the door.

"Remember, no fair looking till I say so!" she called out.

"Honor bright!"

From the dark there began to emerge in mellow tones a room enhanced light and in turn lending to light an added charm.

"Ready!" she sang out.

She was still kneeling as he appeared from outside, framed in the doorway, his face aglow with anticipation, with the play on it of the leaping light of the hearthfire.

He caught his breath with pleasure. It was a tribute too eloquent to spoil "Cora yellow," he muttered.

with words. His eyes ranged from light to shade; from detail to the picture as a whole. He was saying up what he wanted to say.

But perceiving the look in his face became thoughtful; then anxious to recapture something within him, some recollection. What he was trying to recapture was yielding to the effort. But a strained look was coming into his eyes.

Then swiftly came full realization, and with it a look.

And Mary rose from the hearth. Her own face reflected the change in his. And from her throat came a cry, involuntary, shrill with terror.

"Bruce, what is it? O, my dear, speak to me!" Her hands went out.

Then the wavering smile went, too. And in its place there was the look the Goldfish saw when Bruce first beheld his brother on the rug in the entrance on Wood road; the look of a grown man reverting in terror to something less able to face reality, crying out against an ordeal too great to endure.

Like a man rousing himself he turned back to the room. It seemed to him his actual effort as he took up a candle and walked over to one of the dim hangings at a window. He brought the light close to it and stood looking at the color of the silk, trying to give it a name.

"Cora yellow!" he muttered.

He looked and saw the same color everywhere, except in a scarf that draped part of the piano. He brooded over that color, too.

"Heliotrope," he called it.

New energy borrowed at usury began to come. He turned to the bookcase and strode over so quickly that the movement whisked out the candle flame. Turning he snatched up a lamp. Flame and smoke streamed out of the chimney as he swept the lamp across the rows of books to read their titles.

As he read them his lips moved; he dared not trust his eyes alone in such appalling evidence. He read "The Juvenile Delinquent," McCord on "Criminal Procedure," Prof. Gross' "Handbook for Criminal Investigation," "Antisocial Tommy," "The Crime of Sylvester Bonnard"—each title as he glanced it dealt its own blow. And two different editions of "Aucassin and Nicolette" set him frantically looking for still another edition. So violent was the sweep of the lamp that the flame tore loose from the wick and went out.

Shadows piled up about the room, heavy masses of dark moving fitfully in the light of three remaining candles and the neglected fire on the hearth.

"I'm afraid you must speak." This room. I saw another.

... the room in which my brother was killed.

Patience he waited; and the wait was a long one. Her lips parted but only because she seemed unable otherwise to breathe. He clasped his hands to keep them from writhing with hysteria; and his voice betrayed the same nervous control.

"I fought for you against myself," she said. "Against evidence, I closed my eyes, my mind—to keep you. Will you not help me now?"

She moved herself. Her hands went out in a mute gesture that took the room; that said it told spoken for her; confessed herself betrayed by him and asked what was there to add?

"Do you thought to make amends by marrying me?" he said slowly.

She took a few steps and sank into the wing chair fronting the fire.

"I tried to run away—I tried not to see you any more—but—Galt told me you were dying." "Ah, yes, you and Galt overwhelm me. I owe you so much! Why did you kill him?"

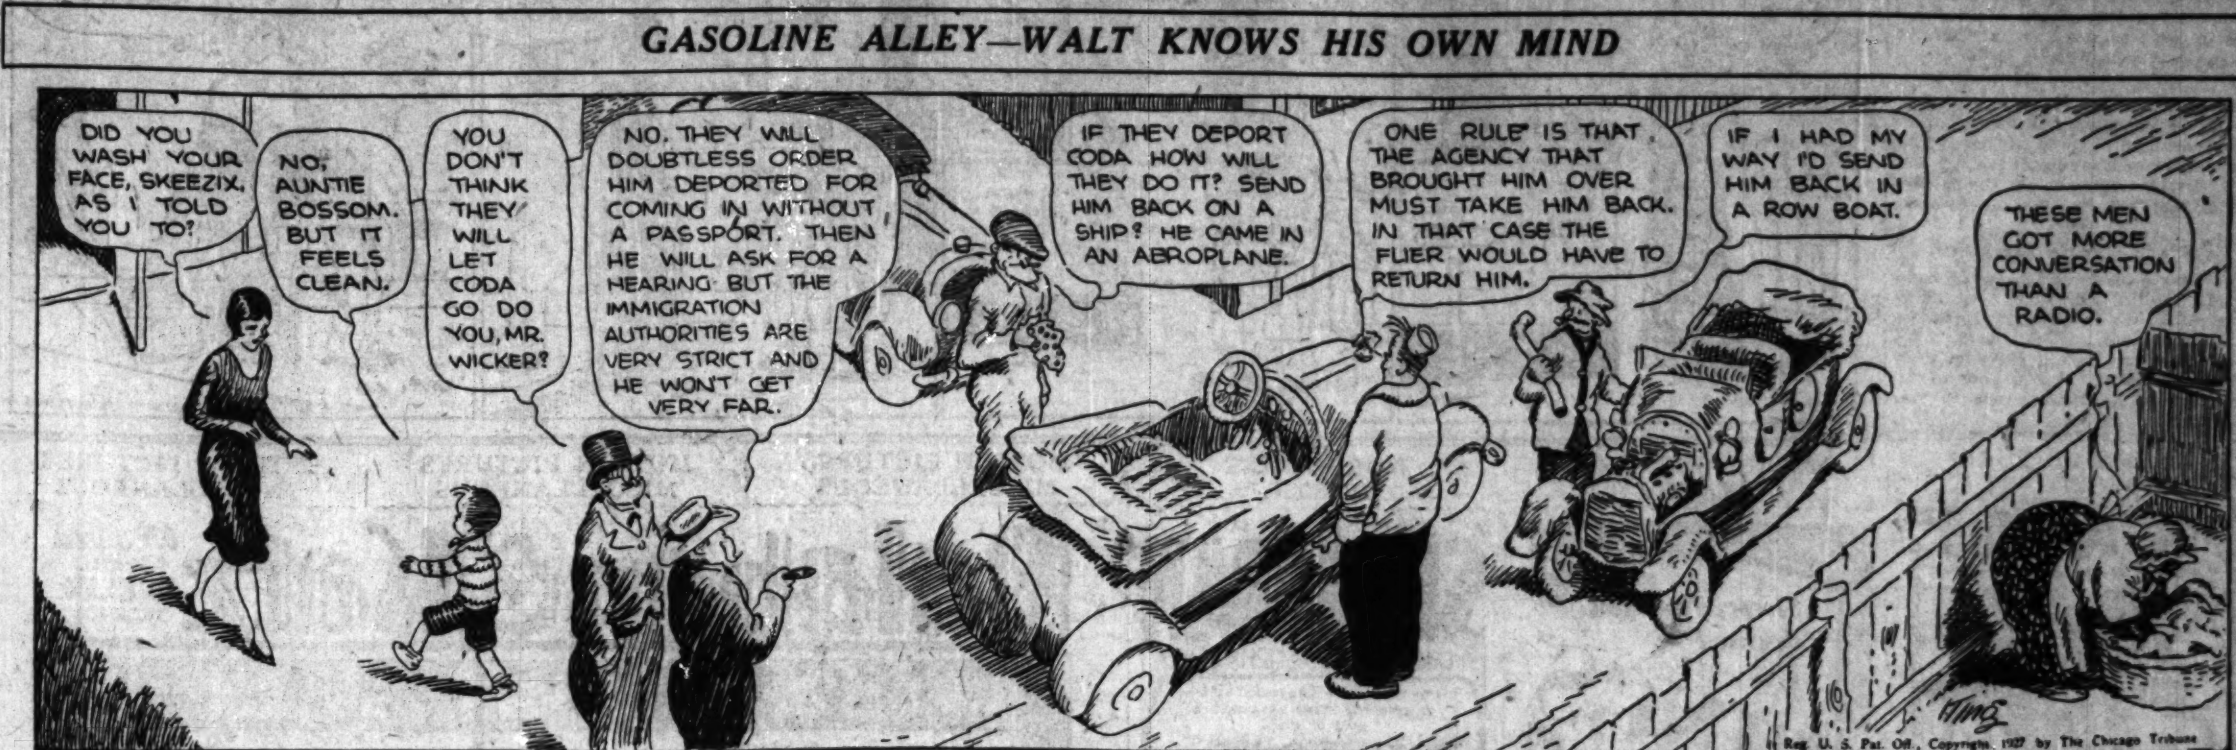

When she spoke there was a curious detachment in her manner at first, as if it was not indeed the one on trial.

"A boy, of twenty-two ... with hot blood in the family back for generations ... how can he conquer it, so early in life? ... And yet how hard he tried. We both tried. For I had to fight the same wildness in my blood as much as my brother."

"Our parents were dead. ... We had to bring ourselves up as best we could, my brother and I. ... We both studied law ... to discipline ourselves, to remind us every day of the law of civilization, every hour to keep a curb on ourselves. I worked in a law office ... in a child's court ... probation officer ... I thought I found in my salary ... kept getting into fights, scrapes of temper. He tried hard to help himself, to help me. But harness drove him frantic. ... He ran away that it might help me. He knew how much my work with the children's court meant to me. A brother who is a standing reproach is great help to one who is trying to guide other people's children, he wrote me and gave me an address. I lost all track for three years. ... I didn't know that in Chicago ... in a fight with fate ... he was so badly that he was sent to prison for a year. I didn't know after prison he came on to New York; that he took a job as a dock worker. But he took work which would keep him cruelly taxing his strength ... tire him out daily ... give the wildness in him a hard ... a burden. ... She was with him now in the struggle she so well understood."

"Bad blood developed between another dock worker and him. A fight ... It came out of his hand and in a blind rage struck out. ... Larry tore it out of his hand and in a blind rage struck out. ... He was close to a whisper. 'Killed him! Just as his grandfather ... my brother was tried under a false name. ... He did not want me ... But he did tell of his other term in prison ... and his grandfather had been tried for a similar thing in Australia. ... He found my brother guilty ... but recommended clemency. ..."

Badger Newsies Tribune Guests During Big Day

Give Chicago Once Over and Enjoy Town.

Ten boys from Stoughton, Wis., all between 10 and 12 years old, spent yesterday seeing the sights of Chicago as invited guests of THE TRIBUNE. Only two of them had ever been in Chicago before.

At 3 p. m. after as crowded a twelve hours as ever a group, led alone a boy, ever spent in sightseeing, the lads climbed wearily, but happily, into beds at the Morrison hotel and today will go back to Stoughton to tell the folks at home all about it.

The trip was the result of an arrangement between THE TRIBUNE and W. K. Mickelson, editor of the Courier-Hub, of Stoughton. All the lads are newsboys in their home town.

At 9 o'clock yesterday morning the boys arrived at The Tribune Tower. They had left Stoughton at 4 a. m. Those in the party were: Oscar Gronseth, Garthel Tetelaff, Rolin Garrigus, Kenneth Lundie, Lars Kaufman, George Rayk Dahl, Svein Hanson, Robert Gogstad, Edward Olson, and Booth Kolberg. They were accompanied by Mr. Mickelson and J. R. Grah, also of the Courier-Hub.

A hasty breakfast, and the party was taken to the tip of The Tribune Tower for a dizzy, though somewhat smoky, view of Chicago.

Aboard a motorbus, the boys skinned through Grant park and over South Parkway, by the University of Chicago and on through Jackson park. Swinging back, their bus headed for the stockyards where they had lunch at the Stockyards Inn.

A brief trip on the "L," an hour of strolling through the labyrinthine passageways of the stockyards, through the butcher's departments and the aisles of dressed beefs, then the boys set out for the Field museum.

Here they gazed longest at the gorilla, the Indian chiefs, and some stone coffins.

Then came the best treat of all, a visit to the W-G-N radio station at the Drake hotel, where the boys surprised Sam 'n' Henry at rehearsal and were introduced to the world via the microphone by John Tyson, the announcer.

As a windup the boys were taken to the Chicago theater and given a dinner at the Terrace Garden.

TALKS OF RUSSIA

PRINCESS CANTACUZENE.
Princess Cantacuzene, granddaughter of Gen. U. S. Grant, spoke yesterday at the opening of the Chicago Salon of Fine Arts at the residence of Mrs. Waller Borden, 1020 Lake Shore drive. Over four hundred members attended the opening to hear the princess speak on "My Life Here and There." Robert Ringling, baritone of the Chicago Civic Opera company, who is making his debut tonight in "Pagliacci," also was a guest.

"America is the one country who has been friendly to Russia, although she has refused to recognize Russia's government," the princess said. "England has suffered in her relations with Russia because of her characteristic friendship. Hungary tried bolshevism, and I somehow feel that the civilized world is beginning to realize what a danger bolshevism really is."

Women of 19 Nations Meet to Promote World Harmony

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
THE HAGUE, Nov. 16.—Lady Astor delivered the opening address at Amsterdam tonight to the international women's conference on peace problems. Nineteen delegates representing nineteen countries attended, including Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt of the United States. Egypt was represented by a delegate for the first time.

The Inquiring Reporter Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Charles O. Goodwin, 941 Glenview place, was awarded $5.

The Question.
Were you on the Arts ball committee, would you vote for or against a Lady Godiva in the pageant?

Where Asked.
Fine Arts building.

The Answer.
Miss Mania Cheshire, 4540 West Madison street, music student—If the lady had a lovely head of hair and lots of it, and if she were a beautiful woman, and if the ensemble effect were artistic, I would be in favor of it; otherwise, absolutely not.

F. A. Reynolds, 1927 Fine Arts building, artist—At the Arts dances I have attended any displays of that kind always have been above reproach or criticism. If this stunt is done it would be put over in like manner.

Only Mayor Thompson might object. Lady Godiva was pro-British.

Mrs. Beulah Taylor Porter, 508 Fine Arts building, accompanist—Not being an artist, I cannot answer as an expert. It isn't always safe to divulge one's views. In this instance I would cast a vote of confidence in the committee.

Roy Sandberg, 1925 Fine Arts building, artist—That's the old and much talked of Godiva question coming to life again. Since it is under the supervision of the Arts ball, I believe I would vote for it. If properly done a spectacle of that nature is beautiful and artistic; otherwise, it would be unthinkable.

Miss Frances Holbrook, 541 Fine Arts building, travel expert—I was at the Arts ball last year and it was a stunning sight, one worth going miles to see. This year they have some of the best artists in the city on its committee, artists in whom I have confidence. That being the case, I know of no reason why I should not vote with them if they voted favorably for it.

Brinkman's Playing of Modern Piano Music Wins Critic's Applause

BY EDWARD MOORE.
Joseph Brinkman's recital in the foyer of Orchestra hall yesterday started a run that lasted a year, as mentioned as Christmas entertainment for Chicago—in the Adelphi, probably. The British play-cenar has put the boots to "Spellbound," wherein Miss Pauline Lord is on view in New York.

"Jealousy," an imported piece with two characters, has been laid aside after a try-out; and expectation is that Miss Joanne Hagels will be in it when it is restored to performance.

Miss Judith Anderson, last in Chicago in "The Dove," is to be in George Kelly's new one, "Behold the Bridegroom!"—or, maybe, "Behold—the Bridegroom!"

Somewhere in New York is planning a benefit for the widow of Oscar Hammett, although her stepson, Arthur, is the owner of "Rose-Marie," and another collateral kinsman, Oscar III, is said to be taking in at least $100,000 annually in royalties as a librettist.

THEATER

NEXT week will be the last of "Saturday's Children" in Chicago; and that so good a play as this should be held here so brief a time is not to Chicago's credit. That it was on view forty weeks in New York has nothing to do with the merits of the piece, which is fine, human, and plausible beyond nine in every ten other plays that are sincere in their survey of what it is no longer fashionable to speak of as the American Scene. Had its producer, the Actors' Theater of New York, decided that the play was not likely to appeal here and, so withheld it, this week would have been the destination of many letters asking why. Numerous Chicagoans who had seen the play in New York wrote in to tell me that it was easily the most satisfying thing on view in the theater these last Spring and Summer. It was there I saw it, on the final night of its forty weeks: what I wrote of it for THE TRIBUNE of October 24 was on the basis of a performance the 23d; and, when I had made a complete round of the plays offered there, "Saturday's Children" was the conspicuous stand-out. As I said in that report, you will see nothing better in the weeks and the months to come; there is nothing better.

"Murray Hill," a comedy by Leslie Howard, will be put into the Princess Sunday night, the 27th, with Miss Genevieve Tobin as the best-known player. The piece was given recently in New York, where the reports were warm in praise of it as something neat and good in fun. The author was in it there; the comedy was withdrawn when he took up the principal role in Galworthy's "Escape."

"Ain't Life Grand!" wherein Miss Edna Leedom is performing, is lauded by the Philadelphia newspapers. In the new piece named "Spring 3100," the heroine, a dressmaker's model, finds excitement in the love for her of a young architect, a prize-fighter, her millionaire employer, and the millionaire's son.

"The Squall," panned brown by the Manhattan reporters the day after it started a run that lasted a year, as mentioned as Christmas entertainment for Chicago—in the Adelphi, probably. The British play-cenar has put the boots to "Spellbound," wherein Miss Pauline Lord is on view in New York.

"Jealousy," an imported piece with two characters, has been laid aside after a try-out; and expectation is that Miss Joanne Hagels will be in it when it is restored to performance.

Andrew Mellon's Niece Is Wed Amid Splendor

Pavilion for Reception
Costs $100,000.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 16.—(Special.)—As elaborately appointed a wedding as any in the history of America was solemnized in the East Liberty Presbyterian church at 8:30 o'clock this evening, when Sarah Cordelia Mellon and Allen Magee Seale, representatives of two wealthy eastern families, were married by Dr. Stewart Nye Hutchison.

Adjoining the large residence, in 5th avenue, Richard Beatty Mellon, father of the bride, built a $100,000 pavilion. In that the reception, the wedding supper and dance were held. Here nearly 1,000 guests, many of them leaders in business and political affairs, mingled with those who dominate the social world.

The pavilion, 100 by 75 feet, was surmounted by a dome roof. Through high arched windows in this dome the structure was lighted by artificial moonlight, which gave the effect of a tropical night. The effect of passing clouds was obtained by lights of changing hue.

Curved pillars of gold on the four sides of the hall supported other lights which were reflected by mirrors. The walls were hung with costly tapestries, and rare, colorful rugs covered the floor. The ceiling was designed with gold and blue frescoes. The wedding gifts were estimated to be worth more than half a million dollars. They consisted of rare old silver, paintings by old masters, delicate crystal, beautiful linens, rare books, precious stones and pieces of antique jewelry.

Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon was among the guests. Others present were the Princess Lebowitz, the former Miss Anita Lihms of New York; Mrs. Nelson Slater, the former Miss Martha Lyons; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Terry, Mrs. Charles Blackwell and a sister of Princess Lebowitz, Mrs. C. A. Griscom III, of Philadelphia.

Miss Eleanor Chalfant was maid of honor. Others of the bridal party were Miss Anna K. Child, Mrs. Charles Denby Jr. of Philadelphia, Mrs. Griscom, Miss Margaret C. Perkins, Mrs. Carnes Weeks, and Mrs. Anniston Dunham. James Verner Seale was the bride's best man.

German Day Adds $50 to Camp Algonquin Fund

A check for $50 was received by THE TRIBUNE yesterday for Camp Algonquin. "This donation is for your worthy cause from the proceeds of the last German day celebration with our best wishes," said Adolph Gill, president of the German day celebration. The total amount of money raised during the last summer to provide outings for needy mothers and children reached $3,728.46.

Jerry Mason Harry Myers

By Mae Tine.
KIND: Farce comedy.
QUALITY: Good.
DIRECTION: Excellent.
PHOTOGRAPHY: Ditto.

ACTING: Smart and snappy.
CHIEF ASSET: It's amusing.

STORY: Frivolous trifle that deals with a couple of so-called honeymooners that are nothing of the kind and get much shuffled—and scuffed—in a Pullman.

REMARKS: The folks in the cast are on their toes all the time. The gas man has been clever and generous with laughs he hands you.

Sunday Suppers and Movies Now Popular with Many Hostesses

By NANCY R.

The Sunday evening supper and movie parties are a fortnight or so old at the start of the new year and are proving a most delightful sort of new entertainment, and each occasion brings out its quota of visiting celebrities.

This week, at the third of these gatherings, the Joseph G. Coleman was having a group of friends over to meet the Princess de Broglie and Mrs. Pollock Graham—the latter from Santa Barbara, and is well known to the many Chicagoans who spend part of each year out in California.

Last Sunday Bernard Boutet de Monvel, whose exhibit opens this afternoon at the Arts club, was the guest of Mrs. Arthur Bradley, who was enjoying the Sunday evening festivities at the Casino. A delicious buffet supper adds to the informality of the occasion, with soup, oysters and a hot dish of pork and beans among the favorite specialties of the menu. I'm told that both Mr. Boutet and Mr. Nichols found the latter dish much to their liking.

At 8 o'clock yesterday at the Arts club found a gay group of luncheon parties going on in the burgundy and yellow dining room, those present including Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bradley, Mrs. Edward Shaw, Arthur Alda, Miss Katherine Dudley, Miss Alice Rouiller, Mrs. Russell Matthias, Miss Louise Brewer, Mrs. William E. Parsons, Arthur Henn, William McGovern, Morris Howard, and Chaucery McCormick.

The week before the well known sculptor and writer, Sir Rennell Rodd, who was the guest of Mrs. Arthur Bradley, was enjoying the Sunday evening festivities at the Casino. A delicious buffet supper adds to the informality of the occasion, with soup, oysters and a hot dish of pork and beans among the favorite specialties of the menu. I'm told that both Mr. Boutet and Mr. Nichols found the latter dish much to their liking.

Day's News in Society

The Arts club is inaugurating a new departure in hostesses for the opening of the exhibition and reception for M. Bernard Boutet de Monvel at tea this afternoon. Artist, Son of Artist Shows Pictures Winning Critic's Praise

By ELEANOR JEWETT.

An unusual exhibition opens today at the Arts club. It is not often that a son follows successfully in his father's footsteps, but in the case of Bernard Boutet de Monvel the generality does not hold true. Boutet de Monvel, father, has endeavored himself to all of us with the innumerable charming, delicate, and fanciful illustrations that have made more fascinating the little stories and verses and songs with which our childhood is beguiled.

The son, Bernard, has the delicate touch of his father in much of his work. To point one instance, in the utterly adorable "Portrait of a Child," a rosy, brown-eyed cherub sitting braced against cushions in a curtained boudoir. Another instance is the portrait of the little girl with her bright green watering can waiting to splash a white daisy plant with water. Instances could be multiplied from the current exhibit of his work at the Arts club. Where he and his father differ is when Bernard, son, paints scenes from the late war or enters into the realistic mood of the Arabs. There a different note is struck. We have the man of action, no longer the dreamer. There is force and power and a virile honesty in these sturdy paintings which mark their importance.

On Sunday this exhibition will be reinforced by the opening of an exhibit of sculpture by Boris Lovet-Lorski and of rugs, designed by some modern painters, from Myrbor of Paris.

At the Palette and Chisel club the annual small sketch show by members is now current. Many pleasing little pictures are to be found including landscapes, flower pieces, still life nudes, and figure paintings.

Poultry Stuffings.

It is a reckless thing to print certain recipes. This is the same as saying that only a few recipes can be made what is rather roughly called "fool proof." Some one having once given us this phrase, no other seems quite equal to it under some circumstances, yet if the phrase is interpreted right there is no insult in it. Some exceedingly bright people are looking for fool proof recipes because these may save much care and trouble.

Stuffings for the Thanksgiving and all the holiday birds are in request, yet what to recommend is a serious question. If the bird is not correctly prepared the best of stuffings may be soggy. If the stuffing is too dry it will absorb the juices of the bird and leave the meat dry, while not being greatly improved itself by these juices.

We have just been doing some work which inclines us to believe that when the stuffing is put into sweet peppers or into the beautiful little shining red and fresh pimientos or into the new vegetable called topepo, which favors a filling just as certainly with the sweet pepper flavor as does the pepper. The topepo is thicker than the sweet pepper and so favors a stuffing more completely, but it has to be blanched and cooked before the stuffing is put in. A turkey or any other fowl can have some branches of celery and onion and parsley put into it to season the meat when the stuffing is prepared in the service portions mentioned.

There are various ways of testing stuffings, trying them like sausages or dropping better in boiling water, but we have tested stuffings sometimes by filling pork chops with them for a simple meal. This is one of the stuffings we found satisfactory for general use by such a method: Cut two onions fine and sauté them in a tablespoon of butter without browning them. Add to them an equal quantity of bread soaked in warm water and squeezed dry. Also with half a teaspoon each of powdered sage and salt, a little pepper and nutmeg.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Knew It All.

I'm always getting "big ears," but the largest mine ever sprouted was the night my boss asked to take me home for the first time. After we were on our way he told me to inform the chauffeur of my destination, and with that air of "O, this isn't the first time I've done that," I picked up what I thought to be the speaking tube and spoke.

Imagine the height of my hair when Mr. D. picked up the same thing and Mr. his cigar! O—where am I? Where was I going? Anyhow, we're still laughing. H. K.

Bright Sayings of the Children

My mother recently had all her teeth pulled.

The other day I took Richard, aged 2, to see his aunt's new baby. He then he said, "I think her looks like him's grandma."

I said to my little 4 year old neighbor, Betty, "I hear your new baby crying a lot. Is he sick?"

She replied, "O, no, him's not sick. That's all him knows how to do yet."

YOU AND YOUR CHILDREN

Who Has the Stronger Will?

Spirit. Will power. What a wonderful equipment to start out in the world with. What attributes to carry us on our journey through life. If our children have them, they are qualities we want to foster, to encourage, to develop.

Yet there have been parents from time immemorial who have felt it incumbent upon them to break a child's will. They have consciously pitted their strength against their children's to determine to their satisfaction—and what they have thought to be their child's benefit—which had the stronger will. They have felt it necessary to break a child's spirit.

What a mistake such contests are! And how loaded the dice are in a game because a grown person always has the advantage, both in actual nervous resistance and in the command of situations.

Suppose a parent does demonstrate, or thinks he does, that his will is the stronger. What of it? Does it do his child any good to lose faith in his own power of will, to lessen his spirit? On the contrary, it does harm. Everything should be done to fortify a child's spirit, to put more iron into his will.

The subduing of his will is not the way to work out situations in which a child is not manageable, or is rebellious or defiant or stubborn. This is not the aim for parents to keep before their eyes.

"Very well, we'll see whose will is the stronger—yours or mine!" has been said to children. A father's or mother's function is not to enter into contest to struggle with his or her children. It is instead to direct, to influence, to guide, to lead with firmness and loving tenderness, thinking only of the child's good and the immediate end in view, not "Who is master here, you or I?"

The strong-willed, domineering, rigidly determined parents have seldom been the ones who have turned out loving independent sons and daughters. What those children have become they have become in spite of such parents, not because of them.

And here is a warning I feel impelled to hand on, having seen so often bitter sorrows in mothers' and fathers' hearts who have followed these stern courses of action: the impeding of children raised under such a regime is too close for him. To that friend he disclosed the secret of the break.

"I'm uncomfortable with her friends and her family," he confided. "For several generations they have traveled in circles that my family has worked for. The girl herself has taste, 'advanced' beyond a lifetime of mine, I'm afraid. Her opinions are different on so many things and people that we couldn't well escape arguments. 'It's class' differences, if you want to put it that way. Breaking with her was hard, but it will save her heartbreaks later. If you haven't ties in common, tastes in common, amusements in common and interests, what can marriage mean to two people but constant disappointments and hurts? Isn't it better to chuck it than add another divorce to the already overcrowded docket?"

Which is but another way of saying that congeniality is the pivot upon which one's fondest hopes for successful marriage may be pinned. And rightly so.

Outside of marriage the people whose company give us the most pleasure are those with ideas, ideal viewpoints on life in general closely kin to our own. The theory of the marriage of "opposites" must have

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

Here is a remarkably attractive dress of transparent velvet with a vest of duvelaine in surplus styling. The unusual fascinator is of plain velvet in a harmonizing tone, which is repeated in cuffs and belts, ending in points at each side of the front. Crêpe satin in reverse treatment, tweed, kasha and French twill are interesting fabrics from which to choose.

The pattern, 906, comes in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 2 1/2 yards of 40 inch material with 1/4 yard of 40 inch black and 1/4 yard of 40 inch contrasting.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

The Best Proof.
"Dear Miss Blake: I have been out with a boy several times. I am fond of him and he seems fond of me, but he has never kissed me. Do you really believe he is fond of me? ANXIOUS."

That's the best proof that he is genuinely fond of you, dear. He isn't going to take a chance of displeasing you by attempting to kiss you.

Headaches may be swiftly and safely relieved by a Bayer Aspirin tablet. A most efficient remedy, and there's no after effect; it uses avoids much needless suffering. Try it next time; see how soon its soothing influence is felt. Just as helpful when you have a cold; neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, lumbago. Just be certain you get real Bayer Aspirin—the genuine has Bayer on the box, and on every tablet. All druggists, with proven directions.

Antoinette Warns Against Severe Freckle Treatment

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"Edna" inquires about face peeling for removing freckles. Is it painful? What is the nature of the treatment? Face peeling for removing freckles has its enthusiasts, but I am not one of them. To begin with, the process is painful—in some skins frightfully painful—and unless one's freckles are so disfiguring that surgical treatment is a last resort I should certainly not urge it.

There is no question that freckles are difficult to remove. There are freckle creams on the market, some of them good and others containing mercury and bismuth salts. Preparations containing bismuth of mercury, if used too often may produce a deep staining more objectionable than the freckles.

To fade out light freckles, lemon juice and glycerine mixed will be found helpful. Peroxide diluted with the skin. If it smartly dilute further with plain water or with rose water.

After any of these bleaches, use a cream, as they are drying to the skin. The face peels are expensive. The process consists in burning off the outer skin with chemicals. The layer underneath is exposed and there is the ever present danger of infection. And if you think it is a painless operation to have the outer covering of your face removed, you may be assured it is not if you can remember when you skinned your knee or your arm, or even when a hangnail exposed that underneath layer.

Another disadvantage is that you have to retire to a dark room for several days, as it is impossible to endure a strong light. And the skin has to be treated with infinite care after the peel because of its excessive tenderness.

I may lean a little backward in my stand against certain forms of beauty surgery, but it is because I hear stories of unfortunate risks taken with results that are harrowing in some instances, and I do not want to recommend anything that has an element of risk in it. I can readily understand women with disfiguring blemishes that warp the very fiber of their being submitting themselves willingly to facial surgery. To them my caution is to seek only the best professional services. But freckles are rarely so disfiguring as to call for extreme measures of correction.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

B. A.: HERE ARE SEVERAL SIMPLE but effective exercises for reducing the hips and abdomen: Stand with feet together, hands back of the head. Bend from side to side as far as you can without moving the lower part of the body. Rise on the toes, stretch the arms overhead; bend the body at the trunk and try to touch the fingertips to the floor. Send a stamped addressed envelope for additional exercises.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of each pattern as you want. Enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Clotilde Patterns, Chicago Tribune, 247 Park Avenue, New York City.

Stark Simplicity in This Gown's Cachet

by Corinne Love

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—That the law of gravitation should operate only at one side is still the supreme aspiration of the designer of evening clothes. Time and again the autumn collections prove to us that an evening dress doesn't require anything but the oblique line of the skirt to make it a sophisticated creation. So long as your skirt hem juts down abruptly at one side you don't need to feel a bit nervous about anybody's longitudes.

Today's model offers still one more testimony to the voluminous evidence of this fact. Here we have mauve satin trimmed with not a single flower or jewel or bead. Nor does it need it. For does the skirt not dip away down at the left side and is it not all at this point to give it a little extra individuality? The model is made in two pieces, and it will be seen that the jumper in draped outline at the center front after the fashion of so many smart new jumpers. To dissipate the extreme severity of line, a floating panel of self-material is attached to the back of one shoulder.

Frequently the most guileless of bodices is seen in connection with these dipping skirts. For example, a smart dinner gown from Premet which is made of black chiffon shows a sleeveless bodice trimmed with a shawl collar of rose colored lace repeated at the hem. It ends—this bodice—just slightly below the normal waistline, where it is confined by a narrow girdle of self material fastening at the side with a rhinestone ornament.

And, by the way, that reference to tinted lace in connection with black chiffon is something to be remembered about our evening hours. For in order to give these fashionable black evening gowns the touch of color allowed them some such tinted lace is frequently employed.
